

0 Deaths and Great Property Loss at Nassau

Island of Bahamas Isolated for Two Days—Hurricane Was Worst in Years—Scarcely a Building Uninjured.

Nassau, Bahamas Islands, Sept. 28 (P).—With twenty deaths and enormous property damage reported in a severe hurricane that swept this Bahaman island capital isolated from outside communication for 48 hours, Colonial government officials were completing an inventory of the wrath of the storm that came off slowly on a southwesterly gale in the direction of the Florida Straits.

Lashing the city at a velocity estimated by weather bureau officials to have been 100 miles an hour or more, the high winds wrecked virtually all small craft in the harbor, broke the sea wall in several places, flooded houses, disrupted communication lines and left the city without power.

The governor's home was badly damaged. Churches also suffered severely. The Baptist Church was wrecked and the cathedral was damaged slightly.

Nassau's famous ceiba tree was uprooted and vegetation was whipped to shreds.

Streets were flooded by rainfall and water blown in from the harbor. Telephones were still. No damage to the city's water system was reported.

Officials said the storm was worse collectively than any that has struck this section in years, scarcely a building in the city escaped injury.

Communication with the outside world which had been paralyzed since the storm began to strike last Wednesday afternoon, was not resumed until late last night, when the first radio message telling of conditions was dispatched to Miami.

No reports have been received from the other islands of the Bahamas group, and it was feared that they too had suffered. The palatial yacht Montague, formerly owned by the late Julius Fleischmann, but now the property of Barron G. Collier, wealthy Florida developer, was wrecked in the entrance of the harbor, but the passengers and 23 crew members were rescued by life lines thrown out from shore.

MACDONALD ACCEPTS CLEARWATER'S INVITATION

Friday at noon, Judge Clearwater received from Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador to the United States, a special message saying that the Right Honorable James Ramsay MacDonald, Prime Minister of England, had advised him by cable that he, the Prime Minister, had accepted the invitation of the Judge as President of the Commissioners of the State of New York Reservation at Niagara Falls to be the guest of that Commission on his coming visit to the United States while he was at Niagara.

The British Ambassador said that the Prime Minister advised him he would be accompanied by his daughter, Miss Isabel MacDonald, Lord Arnold, Paymaster General Sir Robert B. L. Craigie, C. M. G., M. P., Thomas, Deputy Secretary to the Cabinet, Miss Rosenberg, Mr. MacDonald's secretary, two messengers and a detective.

Also he added that he was not at the moment able to say what day the Prime Minister would reach Niagara, but as soon as he learned of the date, he would advise the Judge.

In addition to the Prime Minister's party, the Commission will entertain the Honorable Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Honorable Philip H. Elting, Collector of the Port of New York.

ARMLESS WOMAN FLIER DIES IN PLANE CRASH

Abilene, Texas, Sept. 28 (P).—An armless, unlicensed woman pilot, who, though her vision was defective, had mastered flying to the satisfaction of an instructor and considered it easier than horse-back riding or automobile driving, was killed yesterday in the crash of her obsolete plane near here.

Miss Josephine Callaghan, 49-year-old wealthy, Enchito, Cal., rancher, was the victim. The ship went into a nose dive, plunged down into a cotton field and was smashed. She was flying alone and the explanation of the mishap presumably never will be known.

The craft had a shoulder-high control arrangement by which Miss Callaghan, using the stubs of her arms, could manipulate it.

Callen of this city was the examiner representing the State Civil Service Commission. The positions and the number that took the examination are: Assistant Superintendent L. I. State Park, 1; guard public works, department highways, 5; assistant civil engineer, 2; work, grade 2, 1; motor fuel examiner, 1; safety inspector, 1; telephone operator, Napanoch Reformatory, 1; recording clerk, Ulster county clerk's office, typist, 2.

MacDonald Off For United States

Sailed This Morning on Berengaria on Mission of Peace and Good Will—Carries Confidence and Best Wishes of British People.

Aboard S. S. Berengaria, Sept. 28 (P).—Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister of Great Britain, sailed into the west from Southampton this morning on a mission of peace and good will. His physical destination is Washington. His spiritual goal is the achievement of a unity between the two great English speaking peoples which may lay the foundation for a really universal era of peace and good will among all the nations of the earth.

MacDonald's barque is the palatial Berengaria, formerly the German liner Imperator. He occupies the Imperial suite, originally intended for the use of the war lord now in exile at Doorn.

Last night MacDonald, his daughter and his official party spent restful hours aboard the liner after farewells demonstrations in London and again in Southampton. Just before retiring the prime minister told the correspondent of The Associated Press the statements he had made during the day in London fully expressed his feelings and sentiment regarding the great mission upon which he has set out.

"I am off in the hope of being able to do something to narrow the Atlantic," Mr. MacDonald said.

It was a great day in London. Rarely has the departure of a British statesman on a mission abroad attracted such widespread attention or evoked such universal approbation as the journey of this Scots labor leader whose rise from obscurity to the most powerful political post in the empire is one of the romances of modern England.

Shortly after 10 p. m. last night the busy program of the day ended as the special train bringing the prime minister and his party rolled into Southampton and the travelers sought their cabins after a gratifying but tiring day.

When the party arrived at Waterloo station to board the train a huge workaday crowd of Londoners already was on hand to cheer "Good Old Mac; Good Old Ramsay." The Old Mac; Good Old Ramsay. The inevitable "Red Flag" was sung by workmen perched on tops of taxicabs, but as the moment of departure neared everybody joined in the tribute "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and "Auld Lang Syne."

Dawes at Farewell

Ambassador Dawes, spick and span in evening dress and shiny silk hat, bowed his way through the crowd to give MacDonald a parting handshake and speed him on his way toward another phase of the important disarmament negotiations which the ambassador initiated here under instructions from President Hoover.

MacDonald, in ordinary business suit and soft hat, talked seriously with friends just before leaving. As the train guards urged ordinary passengers to take their seats in the carriages Isabel bade her two sisters goodbye, and tugged at her father's coat sleeve urging him to step aboard.

Isabel centered much attention from the crowds.

From King George down to the girls who sell tea on the platforms at Waterloo station, Premier MacDonald seemed to be carrying away the best wishes of the British people. The monarch expressed himself in formal and official manner in a message to his chief minister delivered just before Mr. MacDonald left for the train.

"On the eve of your journey, I wish you godspeed," said the message. "It is a departure that will be surrounded with good wishes, for it is a contribution to those happy relations between two great peoples which must be an article of faith among all men of good will." (Signed) George R. I.

The prime minister immediately interrupted his final preparations for departure to dictate a message of thanks to the king, saying:

"With my humble duty to your majesty, I am deeply grateful for your majesty's gracious and kindly thought in sending me good wishes for a journey which will indeed, I trust, be a fruitful innovation."

BRIDE OF EIGHT MONTHS KILLED WITH SHOTGUN

Greenburgh, N. Y., Sept. 28 (P).—Within a few miles of the spot where Earl F. Peacock attempted to burn the body of his wife, a butler yesterday found the body of his bride, shot to death.

John Marshall, the butler, said he had started a search for her when she failed to return on Thursday night to the Westchester county estate of Henry Kelly, Jr., New York produce merchant, where both were employed, she as a cook.

He told the police she had set out in the morning for a walk and when she failed to return at first thought she had decided to spend the night with friends. The next morning he became worried and started a search for her. The woman was 24 years old and the couple had been married eight months.

Police determined she had been shot below the heart with a shotgun held at close range as she walked along the road.

Marshall told of seeing two negro laborers near the spot where the body was found. The two men were taken into custody for questioning and told of seeing another negro emerging from the underbrush yesterday carrying a shotgun.

Award Contracts For New Building For Home of Aged

General Contract Awarded to W. E. Joyce Company, B. Loughran Company the Plumbing and John D. Krusher the Electrical Work.

The general contract for the construction of the new building for the Home for the Aged of Ulster County was awarded Friday to the W. E. Joyce Company of this city. Contract for the plumbing and heating has been awarded to the B. Loughran Company and the electrical work to John D. Krusher.

The home is to be erected upon a site secured some time ago, a portion of the Dr. C. O. Sahler Sanitarium property, and will face Washington avenue. With a frontage of 200 feet on Washington avenue the site runs through a distance of 450 feet to Wall street with a frontage of 54 feet on Wall street adjoining the residence of Judge Joseph M. Fowler.

Plans and specifications for the building were prepared by George E. Lowe, architect, and the contract price was within the architect's estimate.

Work is to be commenced immediately and will be rushed to completion. The building should be enclosed by January first.

Russian Plane at Seward, Alaska

Seward, Alaska, Sept. 28 (P).—Four Russian aviators, having completed their flight across the storm-tossed north Pacific ocean, lingered among their former countrymen here today while their plane, the Land of the Soviets, was being made ready for its next hop to Sitka. They are flying from Moscow to New York.

The Land of the Soviets arrived here late yesterday from Dutch Harbor, Unalaska Island, two hours ahead of a storm. The 700 miles from Dutch Harbor was covered in 8 hours, 12 minutes. It was the Russian pilots' third landing on Alaskan soil but their first contact with the mainland.

With the completion of the crossing of the northern Pacific the fliers regarded the worst of their long flight as over. They made tentative plans to take off for Sitka, 593 miles distant, tomorrow. From there they will fly to Seattle and thence to New York by way of San Francisco and Chicago.

The Russians appeared first high over the mountain entrance to Resurrection Bay here, darted down through a gorgeous rainbow, circled the city once and then came to rest on the water near a buoy placed in the harbor as a mooring for the craft.

The fliers did not anchor to the buoy, however, owing to rough seas, but taxied to the beach. Arrangements were begun immediately for a new mooring location because of the brewing storm, which broke two hours after the landing was made.

Convention of Ulster C. E.

Annual Christian Endeavor Convention to be Held in New Paltz on Saturday, October 12—Fine Program Arranged for Sessions.

The annual convention of the Ulster County Christian Endeavor Union will be held on Saturday, October 12, at the Reformed Church at New Paltz and a fine program is being arranged. The registration of delegates will be held at 1 o'clock and the convention opens half an hour later. There will be the usual business session in the afternoon and the convention closes with an evening session which will be addressed by the Rev. Milton J. Hoffman of New Brunswick.

Willard Rice, the state secretary of the State C. E. Union, will be one of the speakers at the afternoon session and will also lead the discussion group on the senior societies. The Rev. John J. DeBoer, a missionary from Vellore, India, and a personal friend of Mahatma Gandhi, will speak of missionary activities. The C. E. Society of New Paltz will give a short play and then there will be a supper served free to the delegates.

Two hundred or more delegates from the societies in Ulster county are expected to be in attendance.

Big Response For Concerts

Reports of the captains and lieutenants of the Kingston Community Concerts Association received at the secretary's office in the Chamber of Commerce, covering the first four days' canvass for the series of three concerts by eminent artists during the fall and winter, yielded subscriptions far in excess of the committee's expectations, based on last year's totals.

Those interested in the concert music are urged to send their subscriptions to the Chamber of Commerce without delay. The rolls will be closed on October 5.

Rabbi Lefkowitz Discusses Arabs

While the recent Palestine crisis had its beginning in the Walling Wall incident, while atrocious acts were committed by bodies of ruthless, blood-thirsty evil doers, developing into unspeakable savagery with the burning of farms and houses in town and country and the looting and destruction of property, the cause is deeper and lies within the physical constitution of the Arab," said Rabbi Aaron H. Lefkowitz before the congregation of Temple Emanuel in his sermon Friday night on "The Arab Temperament."

His discourse in part, follows: "The Arabs are nomadic by nature, their restless spirit is clearly seen in their home life which never partakes of a permanent settlement, their marital life which calls for a polygamous state to suit their varied moods, and their literature, which is permeated with fantastic legends.

"The personality of the Arab is thus wholly nomadic. They can be swung on an idea as on a cord, for the unpurged allegiance of their minds make them obedient servants," writes Capt. T. E. Lawrence of the British Army in his book, "Revolt in the Desert." During the World War, he succeeded in organizing the desert tribes on the allied side against Turkey, and has since been proclaimed "The Uncrowned King of Arabia."

"The Arabs are children of the idea. Subject to changing states of depression and exaltation, their minds are lacking in rule, but are more fertile in belief. True believers as is denoted by the term 'Moslem,' they will stand by any idea which appeals to their religious nature. An idea of war can arouse them for war; an idea of peace can conciliate them.

"When Mahomet thus came to them in 622 with a new idea—a belief in the Unity of God which he termed 'Allah,' he was immediately proclaimed their general and prophet. 'In the name Allah,' they commenced a course of conquest of Arabia, N. Africa, Asia and Spain, spreading their religion by the sword.

"This religious nationalism is most sacred to the Arab who is required to swear allegiance to his movement in the 'Wahj Formula.' To wait while the leader waited, to march when he marched, to yield obedience to no Turk and to put independence above life, family and goods."

"A collective responsibility and group brotherhood is their holy vow, and in the name of Allah, they stop at nothing but victory for their idea with which they have become imbued."

"With this analytical treatise of the Arab mind we can now better understand the recent revolt. The responsibility of the recent atrocities lies not with the entire Arab people, for in the words of Edmund Burke, 'Nobody can indict an entire people. The fault rests upon the Arab nationalist leaders who desire an Arabian kingdom of their own, free from English policies and Jewish influences, who, were they given free hand, would drive out every Jew now living in Palestine."

"Knowing the Arabian mind, whose religious ardor is extremely warm, they find no difficulty in setting his passions aflame, with consequent revolts and bloodshed. As true believers of an idea, these irrational Arabs carried their fanaticism to the nth degree, by burning alive a pious rabbi of 69 years, by refusing to surrender their arms when martial law was declared, by looking for victory alone in the name of Allah."

"There was distinct premeditation behind these atrocities—a conspiracy planned by political intrigues with the express purpose of preparing further reconstruction in Palestine. The Arabs have been dupes of ring leaders, with the Grand Mufti Amin El Hussein as the power behind their unspeakable assaults."

"The Mufti fears the ultimate success of the rebuilding of Palestine which has been made more possible by the formation of the Jewish Agency, uniting Zionists and non-Zionists for reconstruction work. Said he, in his reply to the press when asked his views concerning the whole of the Palestine situation, 'The ultimate peace in Palestine and Arabia will never be made while Britain attempts to pursue the autocratic, unjust and illegal policy adopted under the terms of the Balfour Declaration.'

"How unjust an accusation. In the words of Winston Churchill for the week.

Miami to Key West Warned Of Hurricanes

Tropical Storm that Devastated Bahamas Moving Westward Through Florida Straits.

Washington, Sept. 28 (P).—The weather bureau today issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory warnings changed to hurricane warnings south of Miami to Key West and northeast storm warnings displayed north of Key West to Tampa. At 9 a. m. tropical storm moving westward through Florida Straits with center almost due south of Miami at 8 a. m. Caution advised all vessels Florida Straits and south-eastern Gulf of Mexico."

65 Mile Wind at Key West.

Miami, Fla., Sept. 28 (P).—Key West was experiencing 65 mile winds at 9:45 a. m., according to a message received by the Daily News correspondents there. The barometer at 9:30 a. m. was 29.47 he said. Key West is boxed up completely with all vessels doubly secured and small craft beached. The naval base station has offered to maintain communication between Key West and Nassau if land wires go down, the message said.

Miami streets were practically deserted and business was virtually at standstill today as winds of gale force continued to sweep over the city.

Miami was still without electric power today. No lights were to be had. Telephone service in the city was intermittent.

A few automobiles were seen in the streets but their progress was hindered by the gale. In two instances the wind was seen to rip off the tops of the cars as they proceeded. The few pedestrians who ventured into the streets were forced to hold to the sides of buildings or else be blown backward.

The wind was whipping harbor waters into churning eddies and no craft, except those firmly tied to docks, were in evidence.

Everglades People Again Flee.

West Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 28 (P).—A second exodus within a week of inhabitants of the Everglades country was under way last night. Throughout the night they moved. High winds, whipping in from the east, caused them to fear there might be immediate danger and they did not expect to be caught merely for a night of sleep.

Earlier in the week a similar trek took several thousand to the Ridge section of the center of the state. Picking up a few belongings, hundreds of these former folk hurriedly evacuated. Cars lined the roadways, some of them came here while others went toward the west.

Hotel accommodations in neighboring towns were taxed. Tourist camps were filled to overflowing. Many slept in their conveyances. Should the storm fail to materialize later in the day and weather conditions improve, they will pack up and go back.

EIGHT MEN KILLED IN MINE EXPLOSION

Poteau, Okla., Sept. 28 (P).—Eight men were killed last night by an explosion and resultant "after damp" in the number 7 mine of the Corvinton Coal Company, 12 miles north of here. Hope was held for six of the eight, all of whom were in the mine at the time, until early this morning, when a rescue crew reached a gas-filled chamber in which the missing miners lay. Two miners were killed outright by the explosion. One body was hurled 200 feet from the mouth of the mine. The others were found huddled in a room at the extreme end of the mine's passageway, killed by the lethal "after damp" which filled the chambers after the blast.

TWO AUTO COLLISIONS REPORTED TO THE POLICE

Two automobile collisions in which the cars were somewhat damaged but no one injured, were reported to the police on Friday. A collision between the cars of W. Frank Davis of 34 East St. James street and Elsie Nichol of New Paltz caused damage to both cars. The collision occurred on Broadway, near the Y. M. C. A. The cars of Frank F. Longene of 215 North street and Joseph Schlichter of Poughkeepsie collided at the Rondone Creek Bridge entrance. Both cars were damaged.

ALBERT N. COOK REPORTED LOSS OF $60 FROM OFFICE

Albert N. Cook has reported to the police that the sum of $60 had been stolen from a desk drawer in his office at 277 Fair street. The theft had occurred between 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon and 9 o'clock Friday morning. How the money was obtained to the office is not known.

WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR COMING WEEK

Following is the weather outlook for next week:

North and Middle Atlantic States—Mostly fair weather indicated; cooler at beginning of week, somewhat warmer the middle and cooler the latter part. The temperature will likely be below normal most of the week.

Peacock Receives 20 Year Sentence

White Plains, N. Y., Sept. 28 (P).—Unable to convince a jury that his mind had been buffeted into irresponsibility by an emotional storm when he killed his wife, Earl F. Peacock stood convicted of second degree murder today.

His story that when his wife spoke sarcastically of his apartment as a "dump" and slapped him in the face on the first anniversary of what she once referred to in a letter as their make-believe marriage, "everything went black" and he regained his senses to find her lying dead at his feet.

The jury took the case late yesterday afternoon. On none of the four ballots was there a single vote for turning the slick-haired 21-year-old radio instructor free. But they took more than six hours to decide the degree of his guilt, finally compromising on second degree murder. He was immediately given the mandatory sentence of a 20-year to life term in prison.

As soon as the court room crowd realized that Peacock was to live, even though years of that living must be passed in prison, it broke into a subdued cheer and there was a ripple of applause.

Buy Catskill Mountain House

Sale of the old Catskill Mountain House to John K. Van Wageningen of Catskill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Van Wageningen of Kingston, places the property entirely under his ownership, he having bought all of the stock formerly owned by Lewis T. Beach and Charles T. Beach.

Mr. Van Wageningen has been operating the house and property, which consists of several hundred acres of land, including a modern golf course. The mountain house was originally owned by the late Charles L. Beach, who conducted the hotel for over half a century. His two sons, who were associated with him for many years, operated the property after his death.

Mr. Van Wageningen is experienced in the operation of hotels and summer resorts and will conduct the house alone in the future.

Daylight Saving Ends on Sunday

New York, Sept. 28 (P).—Daylight saving time, which has been in effect during the summer in this and hundreds of other cities in the country, will end at 2 a. m. Sunday with a return to standard time. Under daylight saving timepieces have been an hour fast since April 28.

Most persons will set their clocks an hour back as they go to bed.

LOUISVILLE ENTERTAINS LARGEST CROWD OF VISITORS

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 28 (P).—Converging on this city for the eleventh annual American Legion convention Monday, world war veterans to the number of 3,745 had signed the convention roster as the second day's registration opened today.

By plane, train, boat and automobile the veterans poured into flag-bunting Louisville, smilingly trying to absorb the largest crowd of visitors in its history.

Kiwanis Kapers Edition of 1929

Kaptures Krowds

Third Annual Event at Broadway Theatre Friday Evening Packs House With Enthusiastic Audience—Big Show to be Repeated Tomorrow—Talent Galore.

Beautiful girls, sparkling music, funny jokes, graceful dancing and gorgeous scenery marked the third annual Kiwanis Kapers, as it was unfolded before the eyes of an audience that filled every seat in the beautiful Broadway Theatre Friday evening. To adequately describe the Kapers that old, shopworn line "it should be seen to be appreciated," must be removed from the shelf and dusted off. The big show will be repeated again this evening and undoubtedly another packed house will greet the performers and the Kiwanis Club will realize a goodly sum for its clinic and welfare fund.

Kiwanians who did not appear on the stage were in the lobby of the theatre and acted as ushers, assisting in seating the audience which began to gather early. The Kapers, as usual is produced under the direction of Charles L. Adams of the Harry Miller Producing Company of New York city, and it started promptly at 8:15 o'clock.

The ten-piece orchestra as it struck into the overture "American Tune" gave a delightful indication of what was in store and as the curtain slowly rose on the opening scene it revealed ten young men who sang a lively number which introduced the first of the big dancing numbers of the evening. This scene is known as "A Heart to Heart Talk With You." It is very clever and orderly that the audience should enjoy it to the full no one was seated while it was being given. For that reason those who expect to attend the Kapers tonight should be sure to be in their seats before the curtain rises promptly at 8:15 o'clock.

Dancing Girls and Singing Boys.

The boys who sang and the girls who danced in this number, which was one of the best numbers in what proved to be one of the finest amateur shows ever presented from a Kingston stage were:

"The Girls"—Evelyn Gollup, Harriet Edelstein, Marie Prommer, Ruth Joseph, Selma Lehr, Eva Clinton, Mildred Moffat, Eugene Gleason, Frances Finn, Marge Dauner, Anne Lawrence, Carol Port, Helen Wheeler, Florence Ford, Valerie Talciet, Eleanor Bruce, Helena Snow and Lillian Woerner.

The Boys—Ward Brigham, Henry Deane, Fred Spalt, Warren Ingalsbe, Kenneth Newell, Kenneth MacCollam, Richard Paalen and Jack Kemper.

"Trump It, If You Can."

The singing and dancing number was followed by an entertaining musical act presented by Max Aduchefsky, William Raible, Robert Steuding and Philip Toffel. The four boys were handsomely costumed and played several stirring airs.

"Why Did I Do It?"

A laughable skit entitled "Why Did I Do It?" was given by Miss Alice McLaughlin and Fred Meeker. Miss McLaughlin as the troubled miss and Mr. Meeker as one of Kingston's finest, kept the audience rocked with laughter. Why did she do it? Those who attend tonight will receive the answer. If in doubt, however, it would be well to telephone Kiwanian Morris Sanger.

A Barbecue Singing Act.

The older members of the audience recall the days of the first movie shows in Kingston and the illustrated songs that always proved an attractive part of the performance. The Kapers give one of the best barbeques of an old time illustrated song act that has been seen in some time. The skit is called "In the Naughty Nineties," featuring Howard Kinch as the soloist, while Miss Florence Ford and Arthur Byrne perform a significant although a silent part in the unfolding of the skit.

Food for Radio Fans.

Radio fans in the audience thoroughly appreciated "A Radio Recipe" given by Walter T. Tremper, who proved one of the comedians of the evening, but you did not have to own a radio to appreciate the humor of the recipe.

Colorful Song and Dance.

Senior Luther League Meeting

The Senior Luther League will hold its first Fellowship Hour for the autumn on Sunday evening at 5:30 p. m. The feature of the meeting will be a discussion of some of the questions which Thomas Edison asked of the young men in the recent contest held by him. Among the questions to be discussed are:

Omitting of the field of religion, what three men, not now living do you think particularly deserve your respect and admiration? What qualities do you admire in each? If you were to inherit $1,000,000 within the next year, what would you do with it? If some acquaintance of yours unfairly accused you of cheating what would you do? Which one of the following would you be willing to sacrifice for the sake of being successful? Happiness, comfort, reputation, pride, honor, health, money, love? If you were on the verge of an important discovery and found one missing link in another's laboratory, what would you do? Give a brief statement of what you hope will be a typical day for you when you are fifty years of age. When do you consider a lie permissible?

MME. LITVINOFF'S WRITINGS AROUSE BERLIN REFS' INTEREST

Berlin, Sept. 28 (P).—The Communist newspaper, "Rote Fahne," believes that Comrade Maxim Litvinoff, acting commissar of foreign affairs of the Soviet Union, should divorce his wife because she committed what Berlin soviet sympathizers consider a grave error in writing a decidedly bourgeois article in the democratic "Berliner Tageblatt," Ivy Litvinoff's article, "Berlin as Seen by a Visitor," the "Rote Fahne" says, gives evidence of far too great sympathies for bourgeois life. This, the organ considers sufficient ground for Comrade Litvinoff to instigate divorce proceedings and take unto himself one whose ideals are more in line with those of her husband. From a café Unter Den Linden a few handsome young men pass swiftly in automobiles of the size of an overgrown bug. Mme. Litvinoff wrote, "Then one sees enormous automobiles 'de luxe' through the windows of which one can see beautiful women in gorgeous furs or gentlemen in capes of finance."

"Berliners have time to sit in cafes, to read newspapers, to drink coffee and flirt with every passing good-looking woman." To this the "Rote Fahne" counters: "Apparently, Mme. Litvinoff never heard that not all Berliners have time to read newspapers in cafes, nor is she well informed when she says that all Berliners notice and flirt with every passing woman. There are several hundreds of thousands of Berliners who wear no mink, own no saddle horse and are not in the least swaggers. They live in the proletarian quarters, work in factories and have only utter contempt for such observers of city life as Mme. Litvinoff."

ADVANCE COURSES FOR MINISTERS HERE

The New Brunswick Theological Seminary of the Reformed Church in America is again offering advanced courses for ministers for the first semester of the year 1929-1930. The Kingston course is to begin on Monday, October 7. The course is to be held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors, at 1:30 p. m. Dr. John Walter Beardslee, Jr., who is the Thomas DeWitt professor of New Testament Greek in the Seminary at New Brunswick, will give the course this year. The subject of the course is to be "Studies in the New Testament." It will be an examination into the different meanings of the leading words in which the New Testament describes the Christian Religion. It will be asked of each of the words discussed, "What do Jesus in the Synoptists, Paul, Hebrews, James, Revelation, John, tell about this word and this idea?" The course will involve discussion of New Testament passages and of the contemporary discussions of these leading New Testament ideas. Not only Reformed ministers but any of other persuasions are welcome to join this class.

NO JOB FOR 11 YEARS BUT IS FATHER OF 30

Nottingham, England, Sept. 28 (P).—William Robinson, 61, who has been unemployed since 1919, has registered the birth of his thirtieth child. By his first wife he had 24 children, and by his second wife, six. He has known what it is to have one child born and another die on the same day. Robinson was gassed in the world war and has been on the industrial disability list since his discharge from the army.

An oak sapling and a young birch tree from Kew gardens in London have been sent by the British government to be planted in the grounds surrounding the mausoleum of Dr. Sun Yat Sen. It is said that other countries have been invited by the Chinese Nationalist government to contribute specimens of arborescence. Let's see! Is the olive tree indigenous to Russia?

AROUND THE WORLD

London, (P).—The new taxable value of the city of Westminster, a mile square in metropolitan London, is $47,000,000, making it second only to Glasgow, Scotland, among British cities. In Westminster are Buckingham and St. James palaces, the Houses of Parliament, Westminster Abbey and St. James Park.

Zurich, (P).—Nearly one-fifth of all workers in Swiss factories are protected by unemployment insurance. Swiss economists have concluded that this is a better way of relieving distress of the idle than the dole systems used in England, Poland and several other countries.

Rome, (P).—Militia trained for air-craft defense is the latest military body established in Italy. The narrow length of the country makes it especially vulnerable to attack from the air.

Paris, (P).—Soviet Russia has authorized France to repatriate the bodies of French soldiers who died in Russia in the World War and Albert Thomas, has been selected to head the mission that will shortly visit the old fronts in the Crimea and near Archangel, Odessa and Marmansk.

Dublin, (P).—Wellington Barracks, where the Princess Patricia of Canada were quartered on their World War visit to Dublin, are to house civil departments of the government. The space will be used by the Department of Public Works and the Department of Statistics.

Havana, (P).—A book containing historical and anecdotal material bearing upon the week's siege and conquest of Havana by a British force in 1762, will be published soon by the municipality of Havana.

Constantinople, (P).—Harmuz Harem, a Turkish woman moonshiner, has just been arrested for the eighteenth time. Agents of the state liquor monopoly found on her premises a still and gallons of raki, the powerful Turkish cousin of Russian vodka, Swedish aquavit and Alabama cane.

Manchester, Jamaica, (P).—Government entomologists seeking a way to control a pest of big black, stinging ants, met with considerable success by smothering them with cyanide gas. The method will be adopted in other parts of the island.

Le Neubourg, France, (P).—A postal card, mailed 25 years ago at Concrec, 12 miles away, was recently delivered here. What annoyed the recipient was that he had to pay due postage because the post card rate, 10 centimes in 1904, has been increased to 40 centimes.

CHINESE GIRLS GIVEN RIGHT OF HERITAGE

Nanking, Sept. 28 (P).—The right of inheritance in China will be extended to the daughters of the family whether they are married or single, according to a decision reached at a recent meeting of the Judicial Department of the Nationalist Government.

This is primarily intended to help rid the country of the ancient idea that daughters are more of a nuisance than a help.

Since time immemorial, girl babies have not been welcome in the average Chinese family. Daughters were seldom permitted to share in the family fortune while married daughters were always left out of consideration.

RUDY VALLE

HOMER CROLY

ONE of the foremost living masters of detective fiction writes with deep insight on the intriguing subject of "When Is a Detective Not a Detective"—and no one knows better than the author of "The Bishop Murder Case"—and a score of equally famous thrillers.

EVERY susceptible young woman who has ever heard Rudy Valle croon has wondered what kind of a spouse he would choose. He tells you in "This Is the Girl I'm Going to Marry." Read it—and see what the popular entertainer thinks of the fair sex.

A SHREWD observer of things screenwise takes us back of the scenes in Movieland and tells us what sharp-witted directors do when their highest priced stars stutter or lip. He calls it "The Voice Double in Hollywood," and every talkie fan in the country will be interested.

The Hill Street

E. PHILIPS OPPENHEIM Murder

MYSTERY stalks through this hair-raising yarn by one of the leading creators of murder stories in the English language. It is complete in this issue, and is one of the most baffling—and therefore interesting—shorter tales that Mr. Oppenheim has ever written. It is typical of the high class fiction scheduled for The World's New Sunday Magazine.

"Don't Dodge It" said Theodore Vail

THEODORE VAIL, late president of the Bell Telephone Company, said, "The way to meet a difficulty is to face it. If you owe a bill don't dodge it. Pay it today if it is humanly possible. Retain your self respect—make good your credit standing. If you can't pay today tell your creditor when you will pay, and keep your promise. You will win his good will and save embarrassment and loss of standing."

Farming in New York State
(By The Associated Press)

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 28 (AP).—Chautauque county's green tomatoes receive just as much attention as Florida's golden oranges.

Already experienced packers from southern orange groves have begun preparing the unripe vegetables for shipment to large city markets. Each tomato is packed in tissue paper and when they reach their destination they are placed in cold storage plants, later being removed to houses used for ripening.

Hiram Scott of Brocton owns a hen with which he expects to win the Chautauque county big egg championship.

This hen has been laying unusually large eggs for the past four months, one of them measuring nine inches in circumference. The egg weighed five and one-half ounces.

The thousands of tourists who visit the Finger Lakes section are changing the grape market situation in Yates county, according to E. J. Raymond, manager of the Yates County Farm Bureau.

The number of families coming directly to the grape growing section for fruit fresh from the vineyard is constantly increasing, he said. The vineyards are most attractive to tourists in the early fall when the green vines, loaded down with grapes form a striking picture.

A six-ton cheese, said to be one of the largest ever made in New York State, was exhibited at the state fair. It was made at a West Martinburg factory.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Music from two new shows will be featured in the Vedol program from 9 to 9:30 p. m. New York time Thursday, October 3, over station WJZ and the associated stations of the National Broadcasting System. David Buttolph will lead his Vedol Orchestra in a group of selections from "Great Day" with vocal interpolations by the Vedol Trio, and Richard Maxwell, tenor of the program, will sing "Without a Song" from the same show. The Trio will also sing "Bottoms Up" from George White's Scandals.

Sentimental songs of the mauve decade, such as mother used to sing to father in the drowsy quiet of Sunday afternoon, comprise the songalogue which will be presented by the Old Company Singers on Sunday, September 29, through WJZ and associated NBC stations at 7 p. m.

The first presentation of music from the new show "Great Day" will be heard when the Old Gold-Paul Whiteman orchestra goes on the air Tuesday, October 1, from 9 to 10 p. m. New York time, over station WABC and a nation-wide hook-up of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The Old Gold Trio will sing a medley of songs from this newest Broadway presentation, and Bing Crosby will sing "Happy Because I'm in Love."

An up-state girl who came to New York city to become a concert pianist, but who became instead one of the country's best beloved sopranos, Olive Kline, will be heard as guest star in the General Motors Family Party, Monday, September 30, at which Frigidare will be host. In the varied presentation of a program of musical comedy song, Miss Kline will be assisted by the Green Brothers and their marionettes, the Frigidare Trio of male voices, and the orchestra under the leadership of Frank Black.

He has talked to kings, queens, presidents and prizefighters. More persons have heard his voice than that of any other human being living or that ever lived. This latter statement seems extreme until the reader is reminded that the voice in question is none other than the voice of Graham McNamee, famed radio announcer, whose fine, rich baritone will be heard in the Atwater Kent Radio Hour at 9:15 Sunday evening.

Paul Dumont, well known actor-producer and former minstrel star, will make his debut as end-man with the Dutch Masters Minstrels on October 1, occupying the role left vacant by the resignation of Percy Hemus. The Dutch Masters Minstrels will be heard through WJZ and associated NBC stations at 9:30 p. m.

RUM RUNNERS FLY FROM HOLLAND TO SCANDIAN COASTS
Copenhagen, Sept. 28 (AP).—The rum running season in northern waters is in full swing and Danish authorities are combating what they describe as a great onslaught of the law-breakers.

Danish smugglers buy spirits in Holland at low prices and sell in Norway, Sweden, Finland, and other countries where either government monopoly or prohibition reigns supreme. The Danish authorities know the most flagrant offenders by name but are powerless to deal with them as long as they keep outside Danish territorial waters.

The light northern summer nights are unsuitable for the rum business, so consequently the bootleggers rest during the summer months in fashionable watering places or in their continental chateaux. In August the dark nights begin to return and the smugglers get ready for their winter job refilling the empty cellars of wealthy law-breakers.

Most of the exchange is done on Herthas Flak, a tiny island in the Kattegat belonging to no one. On this no man's land are stored large quantities of spirits bought at ten cents a litre in Holland and resold in northern prohibition countries for as much as two dollars.

The most daring of the runners was King Bremer who is languishing in a Norwegian prison, and, while serving his term, is writing his memoirs.

PROCLAMATION
The People of the State of New York, by the grace of God free and independent: To the Sheriff of the County of Ulster, Green County, do hereby give notice that you are to be and appear at a term of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, to be held by a Justice of the Supreme Court, at the County House, in Kingston, in and for the County of Ulster, on the 1st Monday of October, 1929, the several persons who shall be drawn to serve as Grand and Petit Jurors at the said Court, and we further command you to bring before the said Court, all prisoners then being in the jail of the said County of Ulster, together with all the processes and proceedings any way concerning them in your hands. And we further command you to make proclamation in substance as follows: That we, the undersigned, do hereby give notice that we are to be and appear at the said Court, for the recognition or otherwise, to appear thereat, and requiring all persons who have taken any recognizance, or the examination of any prisoner or witness, to return such recognizances, in substance and examinations, to the said Court, on the 1st day of October, 1929, and to be there at the said sitting, and have then and there the same proved.

Witness, Hon. PIERCE H. RUSSELL, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, in said County, the 18th day of September, 1929.

FREDERICK C. TRAYER, District Attorney.

In pursuance to the above precept, I do hereby give notice that you are to be and appear at the said Court, for the recognition or otherwise, to appear thereat, and requiring all persons who have taken any recognizance, or the examination of any prisoner or witness, to return such recognizances, in substance and examinations, to the said Court, on the 1st day of October, 1929, and to be there at the said sitting, and have then and there the same proved.

Witness, Hon. PIERCE H. RUSSELL, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, in said County, the 18th day of September, 1929.

FREDERICK C. TRAYER, District Attorney.

GHAZI TELLS WORLD HE IS RIGHT HUSKY
Buyukdere, Turkey, Sept. 28 (AP).—Keeping up his reputation for sudden midnight speeches, Ghazi Mustafa Kemal has again taken Turkey by the ears with an address to a crowd which waited until the small hours to see him emerge from a party in this upper Bosphorus suburb of Constantinople.

The speech, made from a balcony of the villa where he was entertained, was a command for the world at large to stop whispering that he was in bad health.

"You can see for yourselves that I am strong and well," he said. "Go and tell the nation that the man who has consecrated his life to its welfare, is husky."

"My strength is in my affection for you and your affection for me. This nation shall yet be the most honored on earth and until I behold that consummation with my own eyes, I shall not die."

ALBANIA ADDS CRUISER TO ANTIQUATED FLEET
Tirana, Sept. 28 (AP).—The keel of the first Albanian cruiser has been laid in the Ansaldo naval yard in Italy. The ship will be the only modern craft in the armada of the kingdom.

King Zog has decided that the present squadron is inadequate for proper defense of the lengthy coastline of his kingdom. When the national legislature assembles it will be told to appropriate $100,000 for the naval program.

The present fleet includes the two oldest warships afloat but since their purchase from Italy in 1915 they have not gone to sea, being used as school ships. There are old type coast guards. Besides these there are two obsolete destroyers, four sloops and two patrol boats, all being based at Durazzo, a key position on the Adriatic.

YOUNG COUPLES FIRST IN BERLIN DIVORCES
Berlin, Sept. 28 (AP).—Statistics being assembled here show that the highest Berlin divorce rate is among couples between 25 and 35 years of age, the time of life when the cementing rather than the breaking of permanent family ties is expected in this land of solid home life traditions.

Recorders were nonplussed to find also that the next most numerous groups fell among those who were either not of legal age or had already passed fifty.

Within the year 417 couples who had managed to carry on together for more than 25 years, came to the parting of the ways. Whether they intended to remarry or wished to pass their closing years in solitude, was not disclosed.

BRITISH LAWYERS FACE HARD TIMES IN LONDON
London, Sept. 28 (AP).—King's Counsel are finding it hard to make a living in the Law Courts these days owing to an increasing tendency on the part of the public to avoid litigation.

It is declared that the legal year just closed has been the worst in the memory of the Bar. Many experienced junior counsel did not earn $1,000 in the year and some of the rank and file were reduced to penury.

How bad is the situation can be seen from the fact that 300 applications from practicing "silk" and juniors were sent in for a vacant county court judgeship.

HEENEY IS THOUGH WITH THE PRIZE RING
New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—Tom Heeneey, brawny New Zealand blacksmith, is through with the prize ring.

Dissatisfied with his showing against George Hoffman, young New York heavyweight, in a preliminary bout on the Loughran-Sharkey card Thursday night, "Honest Tom" has decided that he has had enough of the game.

Heeneey recently stopped Victorio Campolo, said before his fight with Hoffman that if he failed to knock out the youngster he would retire. As it turned out he was hard pressed to eke out an extremely unpopular decision.

Heeneey has been decidedly on the down grade ever since his crushing defeat by Gene Tunney in the heavyweight champion's last bout a year ago.

STARTLING CONTRAST

President Hoover wrote to the Women's Christian Temperance Union in session at Indianapolis that "too many people have come to rely wholly upon the strong arm of the law to enforce abstinence, forgetting that the cause of temperance has its strong foundations in the conviction of the individual of the personal value to himself of temperance in all things." And Justice Franklin Hoyt of the New York Children's Court is thus quoted: "Out of all the judges, the probation officers and other court officials of the court (151 in number), and out of all the social welfare-workers connected with other organizations who co-operate directly with the court in welfare work, I personally do not know of one who believes in our present scheme of national prohibition, or considers our present national policy either wise or beneficial. The speaker has created a condition worse in many respects than that which faced us before."

Then there is the fact that American jails are overcrowded, that the Federal government is to spend five millions for the enlargement of Federal prisons, and that at least half of our jail population is now composed of offenders against prohibition law. In England on the other hand, many jails are for sale because no longer needed. Even in long turbulent Ireland jails are being "closed" because the number of offenders has been so greatly reduced. There are other reasons for this startling contrast, including the prompt action of the courts and the severe punishment imposed in the British Isles, but the chief reason given is the success in both England and Ireland of the policy of securing temperance through high license and other restrictions on the sale of the more intoxicating liquors. The startling contrast noted would seem to be proof by itself that there is something wrong in the American system.

This is evidently a world-beating business year. One of the country's leading economic soothsayers says it seems probable now that industrial earnings for 1929 "will not only exceed the 1928 record earnings, but will exceed them by a considerable margin, perhaps as much as 50 per cent." Last year was, as everybody knows, a good year. In olden times, away back before the war, we would have considered it a marvelous year. And now the prospect is 50 per cent better. The nation may well pat itself on the back. On with the dance! Let joy be unconfined. At the same time, a little sober reflection will do no harm. Too many business men, when they have an unusually fortunate year, take it as a new normal and then are saddened and worried if subsequent years fail to maintain the high level. Too many stockholders and speculators not only expect the top of the wave to hold up, but expect still higher waves to follow. Optimism is a fine quality, but sometimes needs tempering with judgment. Good as the outlook is, still it is hard for a temperate onlooker to believe that the profit curve will continue upward forever. Don't expect impossibilities. Hold onto some of the easy money flowing past.

New York's annual budget now runs more than half a billion dollars, and its net public debt is more than a billion and a half. These facts, however, stupendous as they are, do not tell the whole story. The city's debt has risen $300,000,000 in the last three years. Its increase in population and wealth is not enough to justify a $100,000,000-per-year increase of indebtedness. No wonder responsible New Yorkers are demanding economy in public expenditures. The second-largest city in the country is in worse plight, though its figures are naturally smaller. It faces a deficit this year and has had to raise money at exorbitant interest rates by selling bonds. Cook County—which is Chicago—is bankrupt, and cannot pay its public employees. Many smaller American communities are in as bad plight. Public extravagance is a greater evil in this country today than private extravagance. Most of the cities are living beyond their means. Nearly all of the things they spend money for are all right—the ends sought are worthy—but too much is undertaken. Progress is sought too fast. It is time to slow down a little, till income catches up again with expenditure.

President Hoover has called on Senator Howell, "ultra-dry" of Nebraska, to prove his assertion of "rampant and officially ignored vice" in Washington. Charges are more easily made than supported with actual evidence, and the embarrassed Senator admits that he has no proofs ready to hand yet. He insists it is "common knowledge" that the Capital is very damp. There has long been "common" report to that effect, but the Senator will have to produce something more substantial than that or back down.

Education increases the capacity to do ill as well as to do well. It is stated that a young Chinese "in foreign clothes and speaking excellent English" was in command of the pirates who captured the grounded Norwegian steamer Botnia 250 miles north of Shanghai and demanded $250,000 in gold for the ransom of the captain and the chief officer.

One American editor questioned whether the Young plan would "last sixty years." Another doubted whether it would remain in force even five years. And already the news comes of a great "demonstration" in Berlin, the marchers carrying banners bearing such devices as "Eighty marks every second for sixty years: we won't pay."

THAT BODY OF YOURS

STRAIN OF LOWER BACK.

You have been lifting an object, digging, have stepped downward a distance of nine inches or a foot when you thought you were on the level, have perhaps pushed the foot brake in your car down hard and fast, and you feel a sudden sharp pain in the lower part of the back where the hip bone joins the lower part of backbone.

You find that coughing, blowing your nose, or almost any effort, brings on a return of the pain. The test as to the nature and location of the injury is to lie on the back and attempt to lift both legs, knees straight, off the ground. You simply can't do it.

Now it was these cases that were formerly called lumbago and were treated with medicine to drive out the "rheumatism" by heat, and by massage.

It was also thought for a time that there was really a "dislocation" of the joint between hip bone and last spine bone. The X-ray showed that this was not the case.

What really has happened? Some research men are of the opinion that the ligaments holding the joint get stretched and even slightly torn and therefore any movement or strain in the region will cause pain, even as a slight strain or tear of the ligaments about the ankle can cause intense pain if ankle is used, and yet the X-ray reveals no trouble whatever about the joint.

Prof. Lucas-Koenig is of the opinion that there is a slight tear on the inner side of the small square shaped muscle in lower back, where it is attached to the ligaments holding the joint mentioned above together.

The treatment consists of rest of the joint to give the stretched or torn muscle and ligaments a chance to heal.

In very heavy folks this means rest in bed with a pillow under the buttocks for two or three weeks, followed by strapping, and later, wearing a brace.

In ordinary cases, after a few days in bed, an adhesive strapping is very snugly applied across the joint, and comes to a point about two inches below the prominent point on hip side. The adhesive tape is removed in five or six days, and a brace, the lower strap of which comes over the joint, is then applied. This brace has a support ten inches long by five inches wide behind, and also a support in front, to hold up the abdomen.

Death Treasure

By R. A. J. WALLING

SYNOPSIS: The keynote murder theory "blows up" Redslade, the "ghost" whom Pell was about to produce at the library. Redslade did not want his secret revealed by accident—no one was to know of the secret until he was ready to reveal it. The story is told in the first person by the author, who was present at the scene of the murder. The story is told in the first person by the author, who was present at the scene of the murder.

Chapter 42

SUDDEN DEATH

MR. FOTHERBURY was dead. None of Dr. Eastley's injections or ministrations was to any avail. He gave it up last.

Laxton, who had stood beside him said:

"We must get him out of this. Eastley, you and I will see to it. The others stay here."

He summoned the sentry at the door.

"Go and tell the servants that Mr. Fotherbury has had a stroke and is unconscious. Bring back one. Send another to tell young Mr. Fotherbury. We're going to take him to his room."

The man returned with the frightened Ferris. Laxton, Eastley and the footman carried Mr. Fotherbury away. The door closed behind them.

Redslade, Somerfield and I were left in the library. Somerfield and I sat quietly down. Neither of us spoke. Minutes dragged by till Laxton came in, now alone.

He took his former place and regarded us for a few moments with a wrinkled face.

"A damnable evening," said he. The words broke the spell which had paralyzed our speech. "I could kick myself! He was a quick for us all. A short way out of the maze for Fotherbury! Perhaps the best way for all of us?"

He looked the question at Redslade.

"Certainly it was," said Redslade, harshly. "It settles everything."

Whatever Redslade thought, for me and Somerfield it had settled nothing. In the scene just passed Laxton had deliberately accused Fotherbury of murdering Pell, and Fotherbury had "admitted" guiltily in the most convincing way open to him.

"This business had me guessing before," Somerfield said, breaking a silence of several moments. "What's happened now gets me guessing harder than ever, professor."

"That so?" Laxton asked. "I thought that, when I asked Mr. Grenfen to send that message to Mr. Redslade, you saw through it. I said there was somebody in the background behind Marling—no question of that. I'll tell you how I got at him."

And Laxton told us—in a series of jumps:

From the first hint of a connection between Pell and the escaped prisoner, to his glimpse of a rough-looking customer with a black bag in the Woodcut lane...

From the puzzle of that midnight digging to Fotherbury's anxiety about the missing book...

From the manifest absurdity of the theory of Roman remains to the conviction that Fotherbury knew it was absurd and that it cloaked some other design...

From his own adventure in the corridor at Newplace to the certainty that his assailant knew his house like a book, and therefore to his first suspicion about the identity of the escaped prisoner.

"Then," I interrupted, "almost as soon as Pell was killed, you had Fotherbury and Redslade and some link between them in your mind?"

"Only as shadows," Laxton said. "Till the Seabroke-Graben-Red-slade combination put me on the firm trail. I knew that Pell was not shot by his 'ghost' because the ghost was working hard in glove with Pell. I knew Marling for a fraud. So I had the Dover affair looked into. It had taken place immediately after the sale of Newplace by Smithline to Fotherbury."

"We couldn't quite see, when we got that letter from you, what had put you on to Ostend," I interjected.

"Just circumstantial things. I'd had a report on the suicide of Redslade."

In the end, what we ascertained at Ostend settled Laxton's last doubt about the personality of the fugitive.

Hovoring between two theories of the murder of Pell—a Marling theory and a Fotherbury theory—he resolved to take the short cut and call in the only man in a position to settle the question, Redslade.

Redslade was able to fill the blanks by telling the story of Pell's life after his release from prison. "Was Pell duping Fotherbury all the time he was here?"

Somerfield put in the question. "Pell couldn't possibly dupe that suave old scoundrel," said Laxton. "Fotherbury knew Pell. Even in the Casino at Ostend with Marling! A week before, a gambler, ruined at the tables, had jumped into the basin off the Quai des Pecheurs. Fotherbury knew that man—but you tell them, Mr. Redslade."

"I didn't know him as Fotherbury, but I knew him as a baccarat player, and he was playing baccarat at my table that night," said Redslade.

"Gosh!" Somerfield exclaimed. "So, as I say," Laxton continued, "you can see the whole thing shaping up in his wicked mind. The suicide has come to life and has made a fortune in a night. Neither Mr. Redslade nor Pell suspected him then. They didn't connect him with Marling. Mr. Redslade had good luck and bad. It was good luck to leave the money in safe custody. That enriched the Dover plan—Fotherbury's plot. It was bad luck to have given the false names and tried to carry it off with the police at Dover, because that threw them back into Fotherbury's arms. So you perceive that when Pell had wormed out the story of Smithline, he had Fotherbury in a cleft stick."

Redslade smiled with the grim expression I had learned to look for in Cousin John.

"I was only allowed one letter a month in prison," he explained, "but it became plain from Pell's second letter that both Marling and Fotherbury had recognized him and feared him like the devil. But what they couldn't make out was whether Pell knew Fotherbury and linked him up with Smithline and the Dover affair. But he never squeaked. He was a game gambler, Fotherbury."

"And even Pell's search for the abbott's little pill didn't put him on to it?" Somerfield asked.

"He was never quite sure that Pell knew anything about that yarn. Pell had found him puzzling over the book and plan. Fotherbury could make nothing of it but would ask for no advice. Pell got hold of the book, had a translation made, and worked out a theory of the plan."

"And dug accordingly?"

"Well, he led Fotherbury on to dig close to the place indicated. When he was ready to help me break prison he collared the abbott's book. If our affair broke down, then Fotherbury's chance of a claw to the secret would be gone—we didn't mean him to have any of the stuff, if it existed. When we struck it that night, while Laxton and Grenfen were watching, in a kind of rough stone cache where it had been concealed in a hurry—"

"We!" I exclaimed. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

"Yes," Laxton said. "Was Pell with you then?"

Cardinals Get More Pay.
 Vatican City, Sept. 28 (AP)—The 25 cardinals residing permanently in Rome have recently had their annual stipend raised to 100,000 lire, roughly $5,262. Before the war they received 20,000 gold lire, the equivalent of about $4,000.

Carrying Off the Cows.
 Beatrice, a cow farmer, was viewing the cows in the pasture from the back porch. One cow was carrying a wooden yoke around its neck to keep it from jumping fences. Beatrice exclaimed: "Oh, look! That cow put its head through the gate and is carrying it off!"

WHY WE DO IT

Why We Join

By MEHRAN K. THOMSON, Ph. D.
 Author of "The Springs of Human Action"

WE ALL have the "joiners' complex." He is indeed a humble citizen who does not belong to at least a half dozen clubs and lodges. There never was a time when there were so many things to join and never before did people join so eagerly and so indiscriminately.

We join because we want to be in the swim. We don't want to miss out on anything. The various secret organizations cast a mysterious spell. Our neighbors who belong speak a strange language. We suspect that they are wise to something we should be in on so we pull the wires to get in and learn the secrets. We succeed. The neighbors no longer give us the inferiority complex by displaying some badge or button or high sign.

We join because it is fashionable. Joining is a fad, a cult, a religion. The more clubs, lodges, charity organizations and learned societies we belong to the greater our power and prestige.

We join exclusive clubs because it tickles our pride and vanity and, sometimes, because we have something in common with the other members. An organization is the best means of conserving a tradition. People who have common experiences, common heritage, common traditions, such as the survivors of the Titanic, the World War veterans, the advocates of a great reform movement, organize.

The rapid rise of secular organizations has done much to hasten church unity because we can take care of all our different slants upon life outside the religious bodies. Formerly they were taken care of by establishing new denominations.

We join for personal, social, moral and religious purposes. The greatest of these is social. Monday—Why We Dialike OM. Copyright, 1929.

Church And School Notes

(By the Associated Press)
Albany, N. Y., Sept. 25 (AP)—The address of President Frank Parker Day to the freshman class at Union College, read by Dean Edward Ellery because of the illness of Dr. Day, stated that the purpose of college attendance is "to become good, useful, intelligent, prosperous men who will be held in high esteem by those with whom they are going to associate in life."

"College," the president said, "will help a man to the acquisition of many facts, the acquisition of the scholar's attitude of mind towards facts, and the acquisition of good manners and morals."
Urging the necessity of a healthy, intellectual curiosity, coupled with a keen critical sense of facts, the president advised the freshmen to "separate the gold from the dross, overhaul your mental lumber yard, shuck out the faulty, rotten boards and chop them into kindlings to burn; develop an attitude of mind that endeavors to pierce into things and ideas and discover their essential rightness."
Referring to the acquisition of good manners and morals, the address continued:
"No man is free in any community since he must conform to those about him in his conduct. We have to learn restraint; we have to learn not to grab the red apple on the plate; we have to learn to give way to others.

"It is easy enough to be dissolute, drunken and dishonest; those states require no strength, no attitude of mind; you need merely slide down a buttered plank and in the end you are nothing. But to become an honest, intelligent, truly self-respecting man—that is a hard job, that is hard enough to invite anyone's effort."

As a step toward increasing the size of its student body to conform to the accommodations provided by its new buildings, the University of Rochester has announced that this year's freshman class, limited since 1921 to 125 men and 125 women, has been enlarged to admit between 145 and 150 men. This would insure the largest entrance class in the history of the University, with the exception of 1921 when the restrictions were applied after a class had been admitted that was larger than could be taught efficiently, according to Arthur Sullivan Gaie, dean of freshmen.

The new college for men will be completed in the fall of 1930 and the freshman class has been enlarged accordingly. According to the administration the upper classes will not be enlarged.
Although the new college for men and the utilization of the present buildings for the women's college will accommodate a student body more than double the present size, the university has announced it will not increase the student body to any larger extent, preferring to keep the classes small and conserve the advantages of small enrollment.
There will be no change, it has been announced, in the present conservative attitude toward athletics, although the new campus for men will be equipped for athletics in accordance with the system used in the largest colleges in the country.

FRENCH POLICE HARRY REDS AT EVERY TURN

By J. EDWARD ANGLY
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)
Paris, Sept. 25 (AP)—Communists are having a tough time in France these days.
Ever since the riotous night when knives and bricks and blackjacks were used in the boulevards to protest against the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, every effort by the Reds to demonstrate or parade in or near Paris has been smothered by the police.

The Red's financial institution founded two years ago as the Workers' and Peasants' Bank, was raided not long ago and a whole truckload of documents were hauled away to police headquarters. It was to ascertain what connection, if any, the Bank had with the soft-collared satraps of Moscow. At any rate, the police put their seals on the bank and it remained locked a full week.
Simultaneously, the Communist newspaper, L'Humanite, itself the host of uninvited policemen on several recent occasions, informed its readers that if they did not come to its aid with voluntary contributions, its printing presses could no longer regale the Reds of France with news of Communist accomplishments and bourgeois abuses.
The paper suggested that each Comrade contribute ten francs (forty cents) to keep L'Humanite afloat. In a week $4,000 had been sent to the fund.

It was in this same week that Paul Marion, the Frenchman who had been chief of the propaganda and agitation section of the Central Executive Committee in Moscow, resigned from the party. He wrote his former chiefs that his stay in Red Russia had disillusioned him. The country, he said, was "kept in economic and moral misery by Bolshevik bureaucrats." He predicted the misery will get worse, rather than better.

So far as Marion was concerned, the last straw was the firing of the August 1 demonstrations which the Soviet planned to put on in the countries of Western Europe. There had been a colossal flow of words beforehand about what was going to happen that day in Paris and the "red belt" that goes partly around the city. L'Humanite ordered "everybody in the streets" and pleaded with the workers to "present a united front." What happened was that the streets were filled with police and guards. There were no red flags to be seen, nor any flaming orators to be heard.

Satisfied with the quiet on both banks of the Seine, Jean Chiappe, the bantam-like prefect of police, went out the next day, bought himself a pair of sporty cream trousers, a straw hat and a pair of fancy black-and-white shoes and bled himself to Deauville for a good time.

The less you listen, the less you learn.

Halfless young men seem especially silly to the old boy who thinks his age doesn't show when he has a bat on.

Put a little oil into the machine of everyday living; say something pleasant now and then; offer a word of praise, a helping hand. A smile doesn't cost you anything and laughter will help keep you young.

People Will Talk. You may get tired of the world, but it will be very soon. If you listen to all that is said as you go. You'll be worried and fretted and kept in a stew. For the good-time tongue must have something to do. And people will talk. If quiet and modest you'll have it pre-ferred.

That your humble position is only assumed. You're a wolf in sheep's clothing, or else you're a fool. But don't get excited, keep perfectly cool. For people will talk. And then if you show any boldness of heart. Or a slight inclination to take your own part. They'll call you an upstart, conceited and vain. But keep right ahead, and don't stop to explain. For people will talk.

If you think enough of a job to accept it—think enough of yourself to do your work.

It was during the war. Rain was falling steadily as the weary cyclist plowed through the mud. At last he spied a figure walking toward him through the gloom. He asked the native: "How far away is the village of Poppletown?"

"Ten miles the other way," replied the native.

"The other way," exclaimed the cyclist. "But the last sign post I passed said it was in this direction."

"Oh," replied the native. "We turned their sign posts around backwards to fool the Zeppelins."

Young man (shouting): "I trod on your foot. It was an accident—an accident."

Old gentleman (catching the last word only): "An accident? The hell you say! Anybody hurt?"

"RUMMY" GAMBLING CRAZE IN HUNGARY

Budapest, Sept. 25 (P).—A Hungarian Reform League has been organized to combat, among other things, the craze for "rummy" which has swept this capital and is spreading to other sections of the monarchy. The league will seek to restore the old Magyar tradition of chivalry and love for the family and the home.

Every member takes an oath not to play cards, smoke, drink or indulge in practices which degrade the noble reputation of Hungarians.

The craze for "rummy" has spread until it has overshadowed other pastimes. Every one of Budapest's 1500 cafes has its "rummy" parlor and among society folk the game has taken the place of the five o'clock tea parties which used to mark social life.

Newspapers have written the government that Hungarians are becoming a race of gamblers. One publication says that even the stock exchange suffers from the "rummymania" because players make more money at cards than by dealing in stocks. Several divorces have been granted because husbands or wife showed more interest in the game than in the home.

Count Johann Berenzy is head of the new reform league. He is assisted by his wife, the former opera star, Irma Toerock, and by such famous personages as Count Apponyi, Countess Andrási and Prince Esterházy.

CLAIM ETHYL ALCOHOL IS FAST ANAESTHETIC

Havana, Sept. 25 (P).—The use of ethyl alcohol as an anaesthetic in surgical operations, recently demonstrated before the Medical Society of France, passed equally successful tests at the federal hospital here.

Discovered by two youthful Mexican doctors, Garcia Marin and Francisco Ortiz, the Ethyl alcohol anaesthesia is declared to hold advantages over chloroform and ether because of its more rapid effect and ease of handling.

A recent communication to Dr. Carlos Trejo y Lerdo de Tejada, Mexican ambassador to Cuba, from the two discoverers of the anaesthetic said that the Medical Academy of Paris had pronounced the process a success.

DANZIG FEARS POLES PLANS FOR OWN PORT

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER (Associated Press Correspondent)

Danzig, Sept. 25 (P).—Is the venerable Hanseatic city of Danzig to share the fate of Venice, once a most important commercial harbor of Italy, now merely a city of tourists?

Throughout the German speaking world there is an ineradicable fear that the Poles are creating in Gdynia, only 12½ miles from Danzig, a rival harbor which may outclass Danzig and reduce the free state to inactivity and desuetude.

The Poles hotly deny any intention of undermining Danzig. They marshal a great array of figures to show that Danzig trade has picked up wonderfully since the creation of the Polish and Danzig states.

Thus Alfred Siebenelchen, statistical expert of the Polish consulate general at Danzig, points out that, while the number of Danzigers engaged in agricultural pursuits or in industry has about remained stationary, the number engaged in trade has increased from 21,155 in 1907 to 47,292 in 1923 and is steadily growing.

Siebenelchen further compares the amount of goods passing through Danzig today as compared with 1913, with the amount passing through a number of German ports in the same interval. He finds that while Hamburg has recovered 98 per cent of its pre-war harbor trade, Bremen 77 per cent, Stettin 65, Lubeck 86, Koenigsberg 74, and Kiel 89, Danzig in 1927 had 374 per cent of its pre-war trade.

The principal items of export passing through Danzig, he points out, are coal and wood, both of which come chiefly from Poland.

To this the Danzigers reply that the Poles are using Danzig because Gdynia is still in the making, but that, once that most modern harbor in Europe is completed, Danzig might as well close up shop. Since 1927, they say, upon which year Siebenelchen's figures are based, there has already been a decline of business.

The rise of Gdynia, at the head of the Polish corridor, has been phenomenal. Within ten years the former fishing village has become a city of 30,000. Night and day a host of workers is constructing wharves, docks, loading and unloading devices, cranes, railway tracks, quays and inner and outer basins.

A prospectus issued by the Polish government says:

"In 1929, the transshipment capacity of Gdynia will be 8,000,000 tons of goods. This is the present handling capacity of Danzig, which, after Copenhagen and Stockholm, is the largest port on the Baltic."

"The second series of port works, when finished in 1931, will make the handling capacity of Gdynia about 15 million tons per annum which means that it will be one of the largest ports in Europe."

"Of course this will not be, by any means, a final phase in the development of the port, for the natural conditions are so propitious that further expansion is bound to take place."

The citizens of Danzig point to this prospectus as evidence in itself of the far-fung plans of Poland to throttle Danzig. The Poles, on the other hand, reply that there is room for two ports.

Plan to Honor General Pulaski

In commemoration of Poland's contribution to America during the Revolutionary War, General Casimir Pulaski, who as a member of George Washington's personal staff was responsible for many of the Revolutionary Army's skillful maneuvers, the Polish committee and representatives from the National Guard, American Legion, Veterans of the Foreign Wars, Spanish War Veterans, Sons of Veterans, Boy Scouts of America and Excelsior Hose will meet on September 29 to plan a celebration for the 150th anniversary of this military man's death. The meeting is to be called at 2 o'clock at the armory.

General Pulaski died on October 11, 1776, at Savannah, after a celebrated military record in Polish and American armies. The purpose of the meeting is to plan an appropriate program in honor of the little known hero. This program has been set to take place on October 13.

The committee in charge of the program hopes to bring this hero before the people and honor him with some of the justice that has long been neglected.

OCTOBER ENROLLMENTS AT THE MORAN SCHOOL

While most young people enter school early in September, there are many who for various reasons must postpone the beginning date. Ample provision is made for these deferred enrollments at the Moran Business School, corner Fair and Main streets. For those planning day courses, the management of the Moran School suggests as a desirable beginning date Monday, September 29. Night sessions are so arranged that students may enter at any time. Tuesday, October 1, is recommended as an especially desirable date on which to make the start at evening school, the sessions of which are conducted every Tuesday and Friday from 7 to 9:30 o'clock.

Buy a Car
In noting the references to homeless persons in parts of Europe, the office grouch said: "They should buy automobiles and then they would not need homes."—St. Louis City Tribune.

Ozone
Pine forests do not produce ozone. Thunderstorms create most of it, and flowering plants next. Humes would be healthier if free-blooming plants were always kept in them.

U. S. Gives Pilots Strict Tests To Protect Lives Of Passengers

Watching over the physical fitness of airplane pilots is the job of Dr. L. H. Hauer (upper left), head of the department of commerce medical section. The ability of a pilot to land is gauged by the depth perception apparatus (upper right). The perimeter (lower left) measures the field of vision. Standing on one foot with eyes closed has supplanted the whirling chair in determining equilibrium.

News from the World on Wheels

Widespread and persistent rumors that the Nash Motors Company is preparing to introduce an entirely new and revolutionary line of the famous "400" Series Nash cars, which have gone down in history as one of the American industry's signal successes, were confirmed today by President C. W. Nash. While no details concerning the many mechanical advancements and new driving features of the forthcoming cars were revealed, it was intimated that they will contribute a completely new influence to the fine motor car field and will add something definitely finer to the efficiency and enjoyment of motoring. Public announcement and display of the new Nash cars will take place October 6. At that time Nash dealers and distributors in all parts of the country will raise their show room curtains on the glittering array of brand new cars, and the entire Nash merchandising organization will stand by to demonstrate their mechanical attainments and engineering superiorities.

With a magnificent record of more than 400,000 miles to its credit, and with its body covered with names of cities located all the way from the Atlantic Coast to California and Mexico, the 1922 Buick touring car owned by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Call of Hollywood, is on its way around the globe. In its travels this Buick has visited practically every state in the Union; has carried its proud owners through many provinces of Canada, and even has traversed miles upon miles of uncertain roadways in the various republics of South America.

One of the most unique receptions ever held to introduce a new model car to the public was that with which Detroit was made acquainted with the new Packard Eight. It depicted activities of the Packard Motor Car Company in the air, on the land and on the water. Some 6,000 invitations were sent to Packard owners in Detroit and vicinity to attend the reception which was held at the Packard Proving Grounds. All of the wide variety of body models which make up the three lines of new Packards, the Standard, Custom and DeLuxe Eight, were exhibited on the lawns which border the double driveway from the Proving Grounds lodge to the judges' stand at the two and one-half mile concrete speedway.

A convertible sedan which introduces a number of innovations in body design is announced by Pierce-Arrow as an addition to its Custom DeLuxe Group of Straight Eight models. This new body creation, by Dietrich, resembles in many respects the work of some of Europe's most notable designers. A striking feature of this new body is that it can be easily converted into four distinct body types; an enclosed drive limousine, or a sedan, or a phaeton, or a sport phaeton with a tonneau windshield. The change to any of these types can be quickly made.

The Hudson Motor Car Company announces the completion of an arrangement with Commercial Investment Trust for the financing of sales of Hudson and Essex cars and Dover commercial cars in the chief export markets of the world. The volume expected annually by C. I. T. under the contract is about $20,000,000. The arrangement is known as the H. M. C. Export Finance Plan and follows in general the style of the company's arrangements for financing sales to domestic distributors and dealers. Rates have been established on every favorable basis, Hudson officials declare.

THIRD LECTURE OF CHILD TRAINING SCHOOL

The third and last lecture of the training school for pre-school children to be held under the patronage of the Women's Clubs of Ulster county through the Ulster Home Bureau at the Y. W. C. A. will be on the subject of children's clothing.

Mothers in Ulster county are to have an opportunity to see an interesting exhibit of clothes for infants and young children on October 11 when Miss Mildred Carney, clothing specialist at the New York State College of Home Economics comes to speak on children's clothing.

The right clothing will help to teach a child early habits of independence and self-reliance, by encouraging him to dress himself. Garments which are simply made and easy for the young beginner to adjust are a great help. In general it is well to have as few fastenings as possible. Buttons at least three-fourths of an inch in diameter with convenient buttonholes are easier to manage than small buttons, hooks, or snaps. Low bands and four buttons instead of three across the back of bloomers or trousers are also recommended.

HEIR TO $8,000,000DROWNED IN BATH TUB

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—Robert Randolph Ashner, a 30-years-old Brooklyn bachelor, who was to inherit $8,000,000 at the age of forty, provided he was of "good moral habits" and had "lawful living issue," was drowned in a bath tub at Stuttgart, Germany, last week, it was learned today.

THREE CASES IN COURTBEFORE JUDGE SHUFFELDT

Jack Williams of Bridgeport, Conn., and Cornelius Tey of Waterbury, arrested for public intoxication Friday evening, were each fined $5 in police court today by Judge Shuffeldt. Josephine Daily arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct pleaded not guilty and the case was adjourned to Tuesday.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—The stock market encountered further large-scale selling in today's two-hour session, but short covering before the close turned prices of many stocks abruptly upward and more than cancelled many of the day's losses. Bullish operations in a few specialties were revived. The market presented a rather ragged appearance at the close, however.

There was practically nothing in the day's news to influence the market, and the selling appeared to be in a considerable measure the closing out of marginal accounts weakened in yesterday's severe break. Trading was in large volume for a Saturday session, with sales approximately 2,100,000 shares.

Market sentiment still appeared considerably shaken by the huge and perplexing increase of $192,000,000 in brokers' loans. Commission house advices to customers were generally gloomy regarding the technical position of the market.

Yesterday's money rates carried over the week-end, but next week's prospects for credit remain uncertain. Normally, there should be some easing of the situation after the month-end settlements, but the increasing fall demands and the higher London discount rate may result in further firmness.

American Power and Light, North American, Westinghouse Electric, American Water Works, Republic Steel, United States Industrial Alcohol, Simmons and Macy sagged 3 to 4 points.

A. M. Byers, National Biscuit and Air Reduction were bid up about 4 to 6 points, and such shares as Atchafalpa, Baltimore and Ohio, American Can and Standard Gas rose 2 or 3 points.

The closing tone was fairly steady.

One Way to Settle an Election.

Mexico City, Sept. 28 (AP).—Jose Perez Vidal, candidate for mayor of Catemaco, Vera Cruz, settled the election Sunday by fatally shooting Gabriel Perez Bernal, his rival, says a report to El Universal Gráfico.

Rev. J. C. Madison to Preach.

The Rev. J. C. Madison, who supplied the Clinton Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church in August, will preach in the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church on Sunday evening.

City Magistrate Received Loan From Rothstein

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—Tammany's acceptance of the case of Arnold Rothstein as an issue in the mayoralty campaign was met today by charges that a city magistrate had received a loan from the gambler, who was slain mysteriously in a hotel last November.

Soon after the announcement of District Attorney Jacob H. Banton that he would ask a special jury panel Monday to begin the trial of George McManus for the murder of Fiorello H. LaGuardia, Republican candidate for mayor, charged that City Magistrate Albert H. Vitale had received a loan of $15,340 from Rothstein.

Magistrate Vitale of the Bronx, who is taking an active part in Mayor Walker's campaign for reelection, admitted receiving a loan from a corporation which was controlled by Rothstein.

He denied that it was a personal loan, saying it was arranged through a friend and he did not know until he received a check in exchange for a note for $20,000 that Rothstein was connected with it.

La Guardia made his statement regarding the Vitale loan after District Attorney Banton had denied that the papers in the Rothstein case would show that any man in political or public life had borrowed money from Rothstein.

The charge that notes and documents in the Rothstein files comprised men in political or public positions have been made by Richard E. Enright, Square Deal Party candidate for mayor, as well as by La Guardia.

Banton announced that he will call Enright before the grand jury to tell what he claims to know regarding the case and which he has claimed in political speeches has been suppressed by the authorities.

In announcing his intention to proceed at once Banton made it plain that his action was in answer to the clamor raised in the mayoralty campaign over the case.

AUGUSTA, GA., CUT OFFBY SAVANNAH RIVER FLOOD

Augusta, Ga., Sept. 28 (AP).—Flood waters of the Savannah river today had cut off the city's 60,000 residents from any means of transportation and virtually all business was suspended.

North Augusta, where five persons were marooned in a tree, was inundated. The exodus of the lowlands down the river continued while workmen repaired two crevasses in the levees protecting the city and patrolled the levees to watch for any further breaks.

Hamburg, S. C., a negro settlement of several hundred population just across the river from Augusta, practically was swept away by the swirling current. Only the house-tops were visible above the water. No loss of life was reported, however, as the residents evacuated the town yesterday.

REMOVING HILLS OF NEWPALIZ-HIGHLAND TROLLEY.

The Kingston Scrap Iron and Metal Company has made arrangements with the Ulster & Delaware Railroad whereby the latter lets them have Melvin Winchell, a section foreman on the Ulster & Delaware Railroad, to take up the rails of the former trolley road between Highland Landing and New Paliz, says the New Paliz Independent. Mr. Winchell started Monday with a gang of seven men to take up the rails from a point opposite the east side of the old power house at New Paliz.

Sousa Suffers From Bronchitis.

Syracuse, Sept. 28 (AP).—John Philip Sousa, noted musician and band leader, was "resting easier and somewhat improved" early today, according to reports from the Syracuse Hotel where the 75-year-old "March King" is suffering from bronchitis. Sousa was stricken with an attack of acute indigestion yesterday afternoon as he was preparing for a concert. Medical reports later stated he was suffering from bronchitis. An engagement to lead his band in concert at Binghamton today was cancelled.

Interment in the family plot in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Odds and Ends

All arrangements for the card party to be held in St. Mary's Hall Tuesday night, October 1, have been completed and there promises to be a good time for all who attend. Refreshments will be served.

Cordis Hose Company will hold a card party on October 17th instead of October 21, as previously stated. This change is made owing to several other parties occurring on the same day. The public is invited.

The Goodwill Club will hold a card party Wednesday evening at Weber's Hall on lower Broadway, to which the public is invited. The committee in charge are Mrs. Fred Roenn, Mrs. H. Emig, Mrs. Helen Otto and Louis Otto.

A card party will be held at the Dugout of Joyce-Schirck Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars on East Chestnut street, Tuesday night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The party is the second of a series that started two weeks ago.

COSTS $100,000 TO BELORD MAYOR OF LONDON.

London, Sept. 28 (AP).—Sir William Waterlow, joint managing director of the widely known printers and stationers firm, was elected lord mayor of London today for the ensuing year. The post is one of the most picturesque offices in Great Britain and is surrounded with a wealth of old world pomp and custom. It is said that it costs the lord mayor about $100,000 of his own money to hold the office for the year, one of the most important of his functions being the famous lord mayor's show.

Honors Check for One Cent. Colorado Springs, Col., Sept. 28 (AP).—A check for one cent drawn 23 years ago was honored at a bank here today. The penny check represented a dividend on one share of stock in the Portland Gold Mining Company of this city on May 12, 1896.

former British Chancellor of the Exchequer and Secretary of the Colonies. "It has never been contemplated that the Jews were to be constituted a ruling and dominant race in Palestine to which all other races should be made subservient. The rights and claims of the Arabs to equal citizenship, to an equally careful study of their special interests and legitimate sentiments are also sacred. The Jews have done no harm to the Arabs of Palestine. On the contrary they have brought them nothing but good gifts, more wealth, more trade, more civilization, new sources of revenue, more employment, a higher rate of wages, larger cultivated areas, a better water supply—in a word the fruits of reason and modern science.

"Yet such is the power of leaders to take a horde of unstable Arabs and infuse into them a fighting spirit. And just as leaders can incite them to rebellion, so their minds, with the ringleaders out of their influence, can be diverted into channels of peace. Blame has been laid on England in not having made the Arabs realize years ago that they had not been liberated from the yoke of Turkish tyranny to be placed under a yoke of Jewish tyranny—but that the Balfour Declaration gives them the adequate protection for their national and religious rights.

"Thank God, Great Britain has realized her negligence and has reiterated her stand to fulfill the letter of the mandate.

"Let us not condemn the Arabs. Let us rather sympathize with them, that they be granted a new sense of understanding, that they become like their Moorish brethren, seeking culture and enlightenment and aiming to contribute to civilization.

"Jerusalem, a city sacred to three great faiths—Christians, Moslems and Judaism, is to be the mediator of these religions to demonstrate how people can live successfully together. There we can speak in the words of the Psalmist: 'Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity.'"

O. E. S. CARD PARTYAT WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Sept. 28.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund C. Burgher was the scene of a gay social gathering on Wednesday evening, September 25, where in the spacious dining room a card party was held for the benefit of Clinton Chapter, O. E. S., of Kingston of which Mrs. Burgher fills the office of Warden. There was a large delegation from Kingston, an auto party came from Ellenville, and quite a number of local invited guests were present. The pinocchio games were concluded at 11 o'clock when those having the highest scores for the evening selected their prizes until the supply became exhausted. A tasty luncheon, consisting of sherbet, cake and coffee, was served by the maids in waiting and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

Walter Ostrander, the popular clothier of Kingston, due to the rehearsal of the Kiwanis Kapers, arrived too late for the games, but just in time for luncheon, during which he succeeded in their work was fully up to the other members of the Kapers.

Kiwanis Kapers Kaptures Krowds

Keough in Dancing Number.

Roger Keough, who had made a hit in other editions of the Kapers, gave one of the best dancing numbers on the entire program. It was entitled "Climbing the Golden Stairs." Young Keough is steadily improving as a dancer and his work was that of a top notch professional.

Kiwanians Actors Also.

Just to prove that there is also talent among the members of the Kiwanis Club, several Kiwanians presented "A Gentleman's Hope Chest." This act proved a riot with the solo work being done by Paul Zucca, the genial song leader of the club, whose fine voice was displayed to excellent advantage while he was assisted by Charles H. Hummel, Jr., Don Suskind, Walter Ostrander, Harry Halverson, Fred Chidsey and Dr. T. Hampson Jones, in a dancing number that proved grand. What becomes of hotel towels strangely missing is the theme song of this rousing skit.

Blackface Comedians.

Tom Rowland and Harry Barnhart, blackface comedians, presented the skit "Sending a Message From Harlem." Some trouble over a telegram was the theme of the skit.

A Beautiful Scene.

The first part of the Kapers was closed with an artistic song presentation, "There'll Never Be Another You," which introduced a number of the leading soloists of the city in what proved to be one of the most attractive numbers on the big bill. This song act introduced Mildred E. Messinger, Chris Bonesteel, Ruth Seigel, Harriet Edelstein, John Colburn, Jerome Lehr, Millicent McLaughlin, Thelma A. Durr, Marie Pfommer, William Raible and Florence and Norman Rafalowsky.

The Big Minstrel First Part.

While the orchestra was playing a peppy selection entitled "Snap Into It," the stage was made ready for the big minstrel first part introduced as "Minstrelry Up-to-Date."

The minstrel show was one of the best ever given from a Kingston stage with Clarence S. Rowland, a past president of the Kiwanis Club, as interlocutor, and Tom Rowland, Harry Barnhart, Frank Reis, Raymond L. Reben, Walter T. Tremper, Roger Keough, Howard A. Kitch, Irving Schwartz as the end men with Selma Lehr later in the scene introducing the song "Am I Blue."

As the curtain rose on the minstrel the entire company sang a rousing medley of popular songs while Ella Mae Longo gave one of the best dance numbers of the evening. Irving Schwartz sang the first solo and he told in song of how "I Love That Girl." He sang it so well that he was forced to respond to an encore.

Mrs. Jessie Cowley Wolterstein, who is the possessor of a delightful soprano voice, sang "Somewhere," which proved one of the best songs numbers of the evening. She also was forced to respond to an encore. Raymond Reben gave the stirring "The Good Old Sunnyside South," in which he was assisted not only by the entire company, but by the end men and in response to encores by Lillian Woerner and Roger Keough, who danced while he sang.

Kenneth Newell and John Collum gave as a duet "The Little Town Called Home Sweet Home." Their voices blended beautifully and they were heartily encored.

"Long, Long Ago" was the number sang by Walter T. Tremper so well that he was forced to add another verse and chorus.

Mickey McGlynn and Helena Snow as the "Show Girls" gave an artistic dancing and singing number. These girls are really clever and were again called out to repeat their number.

Selma Lehr was introduced to the audience by a very clever bit of play and then she sang "Am I Blue" as it has seldom been heard here. In the chorus she was assisted by the endmen.

The minstrels closed with Harry Barnhart and Tom Rowland singing "Running Away From the Blues," and the grand finale by the entire company. This number was a stirring one and closed the show.

Those in the Minstrels.

In addition to those already mentioned those who took part in the minstrel show were:

Millicent McLaughlin, Anne Lurie, Eleanor Bruce, Mildred Moffat, Valerie Talcelet, Virginia Minasian, Florence Ford, Caroline Port, Helma Snow, Harriet Edelstein, Thelma A. Durr, Ruth Joseph, Marge Danner, Irene Gleason, Marie Ulrich, Helen Wolferstein, Alice McLaughlin, Marie Pfommer, Ruth Phillips, Evelyn Gollup, Mildred F. Forst, Mildred E. Messinger, Helen Wheeler, Edna Knappen, Lillian Woerner, Ruth Siegel, Teresa Wood, Ethel Oesterling, Alice Trowbridge, Eva Clinton, Marge McMahon, Ruth Sussan.

Fred Meeker, Ward Brigham, Kenneth MacCullum, Warren Ingalsbe, Robert Collum, Robert Steuding, Arthur Byrne, Henry A. Deane, B. Malcolm Charchian, Andy Ferguson, Harold Clayton, Kenneth Newell, Richard Palen, Edward Noonan, Fred Spalt, Max Aduchefsky, Francis Wiedemann, William Raible, Richard Bailey, William Scully, Frank Schipp, Jerome Lehr, Chris

Bonesteel, Jack Kemper, Harry Sussan, Harold Kautzsch, Henry Darrow, Ben M. Charchian, Alfred D. Ronder, Charles H. Hummel, Jr., Edward W. Bonesteel, Ben J. Suskind, William P. Glass, Harold Stoney, Howard B. St. John, Stuart Williams, Dr. Julius Gifford, Dr. T. Hampson Jones, Walter Ostrander, Harry Halverson, Fred Traver and Robert Service.

A Word in Closing.

The Kapers this year are beautifully staged with exquisite costumes and without question it is one of the finest amateur shows ever presented in Kingston. Those who were fortunate to see the first and second editions of the Kapers will thoroughly enjoy the third edition for in some respects it far surpasses those previous events.

Much credit for the success of the show is due Charles L. Adams, director of the Kapers.

Kiwanis Club Members.

The members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club who are to be congratulated on the success of the Kapers, are:

Chester A. Baltz, Charles N. Behrens, Leon Blackfield, the Rev. Louis Boeve, Edward Bonesteel, the Rev. O. E. Brandorf, Lewis Brown, Arthur J. Burns, William H. Byrne, Benjamin M. Charchian, R. Frederick Chidsey, G. Wallace Codwise, Dr. R. S. Crispell, Charles de la Vergne, Lucius H. Doty, Dr. Frank L. Eastman, Judge Joseph M. Fowler, Dr. Aden C. Gates, Dr. Julius I. Gifford, William P. Glass, Raymond R. Gross, Ernest C. Goetz, Harry Halverson, Charles H. Hummel, Jr., William Hardenbergh, Abram E. Jansen, Henry A. Jennings, Dr. T. Hamlin, Jones, Thomas Keedley, Harry Lazarus, George E. Lowe, Samuel J. Messinger, Chester A. Miller, Arthur J. Oliver, Walter Ostrander, Max Reben, Alfred D. Ronder, Clarence Rowland, Maurice Salsord, John Sampson, Morris Samter, William A. Schorshammer, Fred A. Schramme, Robert J. Service, Judge Augustus Shufeldt, J. Richard Smith, Charles Snyder, Harold V. Story, Howard B. St. John, Benjamin Stuebel, Frederick G. Traver, Ensign V. M. Van Sickle, William A. Van Valenburgh, Ira V. D. Warren, Wesley Waterbury, Bertram G. Wilde, L. F. Williams, Oscar Williams, Paul A. Zucca.

FORD WAS INTERESTED IN WOODCHUCK LODGE.

There was an inadvertent error in the account of the Edison luncheon given at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday. Judge Chidsey stated that it was Henry Ford who was deeply interested in securing the title to Woodchuck Lodge which had been the home of John Burroughs and that in answer to Ford's question as to how Burroughs was situated financially the Judge replied that compared to him, Ford, Burroughs might be regarded as penniless. Inadvertently the name of Edison was given instead of Ford's name.

Mack And Collins In 1910 World's Series With Cubs

HORNSBY SETS PACE FOR WRIGLEY'S CUBS

Chicago (AP).—After ten years of playing with the St. Louis Cardinals things began to happen to Rogers Hornsby, who in four years has been on four clubs and with two different league champions.

Hornsby, second baseman for the Chicago Cubs, went from Denison, Texas, in the old Western association, to the St. Louis Cardinals in 1916. In 1926 he managed the Cardinals when they won the pennant and downed the Yankees in the world series.

Before the next season opened, Sam Bronfman, the Card owner, blew up a hurricane when he traded Hornsby to the New York Giants. He lasted there one season, and was shipped to Boston. The Cubs bought him from the Beantown.

Why Hornsby has been moved around so often has been one of baseball's choice topics of gossip. Rog was supposed to be a disturbing element which would disrupt the Cubs. Many had it that the Cubs couldn't win with Hornsby. There hasn't, however, been a peep of dissension in the McCarthy clan.

William Wrigley, Jr., owner of the Cubs, calls Hornsby a good business man, and cites the fact that he forced the Cardinal management to give him the market price of his Cardinal stock when he left St. Louis. Hornsby's salary with the Cubs is around $42,000 a year. He is what baseball players call a "loner," talking little.

RAJAH POOR SHOWMAN; STILL LEARNING AT 33

Chicago (AP).—The Great Hornsby is one of the poorest showmen on the Chicago team.

He makes no unnecessary gestures on the playing field and never bids for attention.

That doesn't mean that he goes unnoticed, for it would be pretty hard to have a slugger like Hornsby around without having him dominate the spotlight.

Although the Rajah is one of the game's greatest players he still is learning. Few believed that Joe McCarthy, the Cub manager, who never played major league baseball, could teach Hornsby anything about the game.

But the Cubs' manager, who himself was somewhat of a second baseman down in the American association, taught Rogers how to cover more ground to his left and overcome one of his few weaknesses.

BOSTON BALL CLUBS NEVER LOST SERIES

Boston (AP).—Talk about interesting world's series eldights! How about the ones contributed by the Boston teams which have never lost a world's series in which they participated?

Baseball fans will never forget what the Braves did in 1914 when they crashed through to the National league pennant. That was the only one the Braves ever won and they lost no time making good.

The Red Sox have won four pennants and four world's championships.

Mack Is Half Owner.

Philadelphia (AP).—Connie Mack has had a financial interest in the A's since he first became associated with the club in 1901. He has been half-owner for the last 15 years.

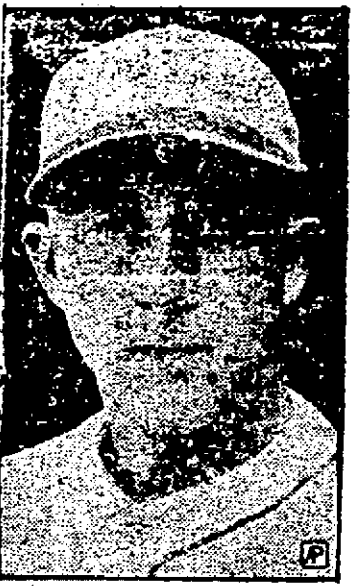

FORMER A. A. STARS HELPED CUBS CLIMB

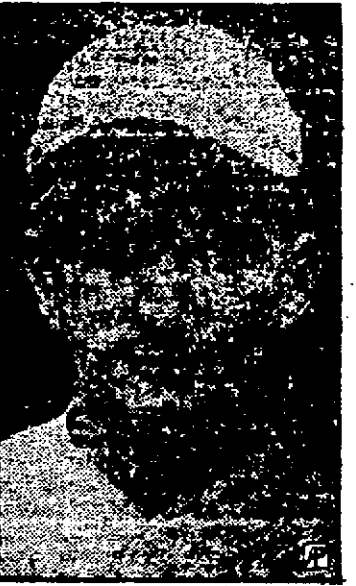

Chicago (AP).—When Joe McCarthy moved from Louisville to the Cubs he didn't forget the good ball players he had seen perform down in the American Association.

Some of the former association stars who have made good for the Cub boss are: Hack Wilson, Riggs Stephenson, Pat Malone, Norman McMillan, Elwood English, Freddie Maguire and Clyde Beck.

Wilson, English and Maguire came from Toledo, McMillan from St. Paul, Stephenson from Indianapolis, Malone from Minneapolis and Beck from Milwaukee.

BISHOP

CUYLER WILL GO AFTER BASE STEALING RECORD

New York (AP).—Hazen Cuyler, champion base stealer of the National league, can set a new record for a single series by stealing seven sacks in the coming classic.

Jim Slagle of the old Cubs stole six bases in 1907 to set a record that still stands.

Cuyler will be the fastest man in the field during the series and should easily lead in stolen bases.

By Walter Brown
(AP Feature Service Writer)
Chicago (AP).—Nineteen years ago the Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Athletics met in the world series, the American league entry winning four games to one.

Two of the actors in that diamond drama, Eddie Collins, and Connie Mack, still are under the "big top." Several of them, including Frank Chance, Cub manager, are dead.

When the Cubs and Athletics clash again this fall, Collins will be an incidental figure, coaching Athletic runners, and perhaps pinch hitting occasionally.

Once since 1910 the Chicago Nationals have won the league pennant, the war year 1918. Mack, however, won the American League flag three times after 1910, breaking up his great outfit in 1914. He knew the cellar seven years before his present machine began to take form.

A procession of managers have passed through Chicago since Chance quit the Cubs in 1912. Johnny Evers, Hank O'Day, Roger Bresnahan, Joe Tinker, Fred Mitchell, Bill Killifer, Rabbit Maranville and George Gibson.

Jack Coombs, Athletics star pitcher, won three games from the Cubs in the 1910 series, Chief Bender accounting for the other. The Chief was charged with the one loss.

Bender bested Orval Orvall, 4-1, in the first game, and Coombs outpitched "Three Fingers" Brown in the second, 9-3. After a day of traveling, Coombs again pitched and won, 12-5, the Cubs using Ed Reulbach, McIntyre and Pfeister.

Chance used King Cole, now dead, who was then a recruit in the fourth game and he held the A's safe for eight innings, giving away for a pinch hitter with the score tied. Brown relieved him and was credited with a victory when the Cubs won in the 10th, 4-3.

Two days of rest enabled Coombs to annex his third game, 7-2.

The series was the last for the great Cub machine which had won four league pennants and two world's series titles.

Mack used only 12 players in the series. Harry Davis was at first, Eddie Collins, second, Jack Barry, shortstop and Frank Baker, third, and Amos Strunk, Topsy Hartsel, Brice Lord and Ed Murphy in the outfield.

Chance had himself at first, Zimmerman at second in place of Evers who broke his ankle the last day of the regular season, Joe Tinker short, Harry Steinfeldt, third, and Jimmy Sheekard, Frank Shulte and Artie Hoffman in the outfield. Lapp for the Athletics and Archer and Kling were the Cub catchers.

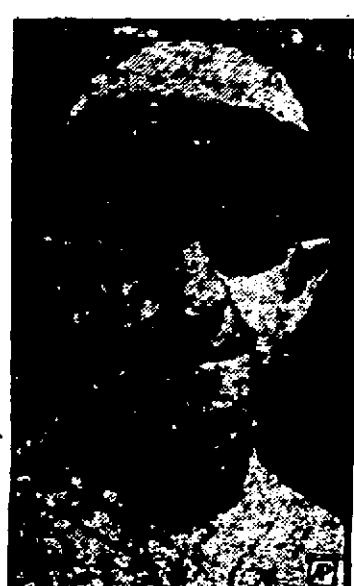

Harry Krause, an Athletic recruit pitcher of that year, still is doing mound duty, playing with Los Angeles this year.

Hoyt, Bender Tied in Wins.
New York (AP).—Waite Hoyt of the Yankees and Chief Bender of the old A's are tied for the largest number of world's series victories. Each won six games.

S. Davidson Herron of Pittsburgh, who beat Bobby Jones for the national amateur title in 1910, is the new Pennsylvania amateur champion.

Paul Neal, fifteen-year-old sensational apprentice jockey in Chicago, amuses himself playing baseball with his two sisters and practicing on the piano.

An airplane flight is remarkable for its brilliant start; but the important point is its performance in the finish.

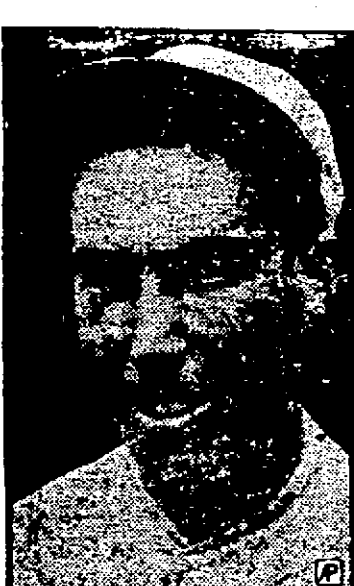

COLLINS

RIVAL BALL MANAGER CREATED A'S EMBLEM

Philadelphia (AP).—The big white elephant used as an emblem by the Athletics has mystified many fans.

A prominent National league manager in one of his hot talks against the American league years ago declared the Philadelphia franchise would prove to be a white elephant on the hands of the junior circuit.

Philadelphia sports writers picked up the name and it became so popular that the club management adopted the white elephant as the club emblem.

HACK MAY SET RECORD IN SERIES STRIKEOUTS

New York (AP).—It looks like Hack Wilson the terrible thumper, has a chance to rack up one new record during the coming world's series.

Hack, who is one of the strike-out stars of the National league, only has to fan 11 times during the 1929 classic to beat the world's record held by Long George Kelly, who whiffed ten times in 1921.

MACK'S SCORE CARD WILL WIG-WAG A'S

BY ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
New York (AP).—The famous score-card of Connie Mack will direct the strategy of the Athletics on a world's series battleground this October for the first time in 15 years.

"What would you do without that card to wave?" I asked Connie one afternoon while we sat talking on the bench at Shibe Park.

The lean, kindly face of Mack suddenly took on a startled look. The idea of such a thing was disturbing.

"Why, you know, I would be lost without it," responded Connie finally, and with an air of let's not discuss anything so foolish.

Mack and his score-card form one of the most strategic combinations in baseball. Not even John McGraw, the master mind of the Giants and only manager in baseball whose term of service rivals that of Mack, has so complicated a method of team direction as Connie employs with the "wig-wag system."

Mack does not like to discuss the details of his maneuvering but the players say their veteran leader follows every move with an eagle-eye, shifts the team around on the field to meet every situation, signals the battermen constantly and pulls the strings of team-work continually—all with a few wigs or wags of the score-card.

Sometimes the signal motions are clear enough to any observer, such as in indicating the move for an outfielder. No secrecy then is necessary. When some "inside stuff" is being pulled, however, the signals are more complicated to avoid detection by an enemy observer.

Under Mack, the A's play "smart" baseball, although the game has shifted to the big hitting side so much that strategy is of less importance than it was in the days of the old Athletics. Mack developed then some of the smartest men in baseball. Eddie Collins, Jack Barry and Stuff McInnis of the famous infield all became major-league managers. Collins is now back and sitting at Mack's right hand when the A's board of strategy is in session.

"Mr. Mack is just alive, just as keen to direct the players now as he was 15 or 20 years ago," Collins told me. "It is remarkable how closely he keeps in touch with things acquires knowledge of the new men and their weaknesses."

East, West Even in Series.
Philadelphia (AP).—The east and west are tied in world's series victories. Each has won four since the present system of conducting the games was installed.

GERMANTOWN GETS BIG SERIES THRILL

Germantown, Pa. (AP).—This quiet Philadelphia suburb is all set to get a big thrill out of its home town boys making good, no matter which way the world series goes.

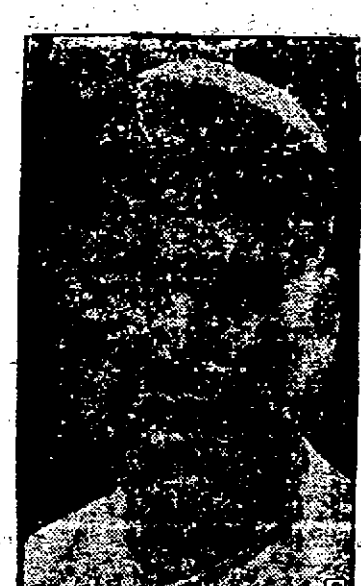

And it's a good place to start a swell baseball argument, too, when you remember it's the home town of Connie Mack, Athletics manager, Joe McCarthy, Cubs manager, and William Wrigley, Jr., who owns the Chicago team.

Football Games On 200 Gridirons

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—The first general football engagement of the year was under way on 200 gridirons throughout the nation today, with about 50 contests to attract paying customers in the east.

With a few scattered exceptions such as Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Lafayette, every college squad on the Atlantic seaboard is booked either to open the season or continue a campaign begun last Saturday.

The mountaineers of West Virginia with West Virginia Wesleyans scalp already hanging at their belts, meet another state rival in sturdy Little Davis and Elkins today. Davis and Elkins surprised with a 7-0 victory over the mountaineers last season but head coach Ira Rodgers had his men primed to avenge that setback. Among the larger colleges this is the only game that bears even a slight resemblance to a close contest. Elsewhere tune-up frays are the order.

Pennsylvania, with no Paul Seall to crash through opposing lines, nevertheless expects to approximate the 16-0 score it rolled up against Franklin and Marshall in 1928. Cornell hopes for something better than the 20-0 it achieved against Clarkston a year ago and Dartmouth expects to prevent Norwich from scoring. Columbia meets Middlebury; Colgate plays St. Lawrence and Syracuse inaugurates night football in the east against Hobart.

Two intersectional games and "Navy Bill" Ingram's Annapolis midshipmen opposed to Denison of the Ohio Conference, and Washington and Jefferson pitted against Ohio Northern. Army opens against the same team it trounced 35-0 last year, Boston University.

In the Pittsburgh sector, Carnegie Tech. minus Howard Harpster, clashes with Bethany at Wheeling. W. Va., and Pitt takes on Waynesburg in the Panthers' lair.

Other Pennsylvania games involve Penn State and Niagara; Johns Hopkins and Lehigh; St. Thomas and Bucknell; Lebanon Valley and Villa Nova; Gettysburg and Loyola of Maryland, Thiel and Temple, and Drexel and Swarthmore.

New York University's steam roller is pitted against light opposition in Vermont and Fordham takes on Westminster. Tass McLaughlin's Brown Bears open against Springfield; Rutgers meets Providence and Georgetown comes to grips against Mt. St. Mary's. Boston College hopes for at least 30 points against Catholic and Holy Cross sees no reason why it cannot duplicate its 40-0 victory over St. Johns of New York.

All of the "Little Three" members are in action. Williams meeting Trinity; Amherst facing the Connecticut Aggies and Wesleyan playing Rochester.

City Bowling League Officers

Officers were elected at a meeting of the City Bowling League, Friday night at Immanuel School Hall, Livingston street the officials of last season being unanimously chosen to fill the jobs again this year. The officers are Peter Keresman, president; John Raible, vice president; Walter Neils, secretary; William Thiel, treasurer. Reports at the meeting were very encouraging and it is expected that this year's bowling season will get under way shortly. All the boys are rarin' to go. A schedule will be submitted at the next meeting to be held on Monday night, October 7 at Immanuel Hall.

The Immanuel and Colonial will work themselves into trim for the season by rolling a game at the former's alley, next Monday night. There is a keen rivalry between the teams and the game promises to be an interesting match.

Tagging Major League Bases

(By The Associated Press.)
The baseball stage was left vacant yesterday except for the performances of Philadelphia and St. Louis. The Phillies defeated the Braves 11 to 5 in the first clash of a three-game series, cementing their position in first place, and the Cardinals made two straight over the broken Braves by 4 to 2. The defeat left the Braves only two games ahead of the Giants, with a week of the season to go.
The class McGraw has eight games to play; the Pirates have six. If the Giants can win six out of eight, the Pirates must take four of the six to prevent a tie. The task of the Giants, however, is by no means negligible. A deficit of two games is not mean handicap at this season.
Ray Koupal held the Braves well at creek at Baker Bowl as his mates pounded the Messrs. Levert, Perry and Delaney. Chuck Klein got his first-second homer in the first inning with one on, and moved into a tie with Melvin Ott of New York for the league's lead. Klein's drive also tied the National League record set in 1922 by Rogers Hornsby and equaled this week by Ott.
Frank O'Doul, the reformed pitcher, had a perfect day at bat with three safeties and a pass. He lifted his average from .391 to .394, and virtually clinched the National League championship. Babe Herman has only .384, and has just six games in which to make up the deficit.
Fred Frankhouse and Sylster Johnson outpitched Ervin Brame to give the Cardinals their second straight over the Pirates. Bunched hits in the first inning settled the issue.
The other National League clubs were not scheduled, and all of the American League entries remained idle because of the funeral services of Miller Huggins in New York.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould,
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Nineteen years ago a big collegian right-hander, Jack Coombs, of Colby and the Philadelphia Athletics, was the principal pitching factor in the triumph over the old Chicago Cubs.

Now another collegian who is just as big and right-handed, George Earnshaw of Swarthmore, stands against the Mackian ramparts, eager to turn back the new generation of Cub Champions.

A casualty last spring, Earnshaw came through to do a lion's share of the Athletics mound work, excel even the great Grove in victories and finish the season in stronger, better shape than any of his mates.

It may be part of Connie Mack's strategy to beard the right-handed slugger of the Cubs in their own den at the outset with the left-handed sharpshooter of Grove or Walberg but the opening games prospect has pointed more strongly to a selection of Earnshaw. This would give the lean leader a chance to capitalize the big pitcher's strength by coming back with him in a second game, possibly a third, if the series is prolonged.

The Mack pitching staff at least has an edge in versatility for it has a plentiful supply of southpaw speed, as well as right-handed "smoke," spitballs and knuckleballs to toss in against the Cub resources, consisting chiefly of right-handed speed and curve-ball flinging.

Like Grove, the ace of the A's up to late-season, Guy Bush, the principal sharpshooter, felt the strain and lost form in the September finish. Bush may be back on edge for the decisive battles but if not it would not be surprising to see Pat Malone first on the firing line for the House of Wrigley.

Stanford lost a pair of rugged ball-carriers in Hoffman and Sims but the Cardinals still have about 225 pounds of driving power in Herb Fleischacker who ought to find opposing lines a comparatively simple matter after helping to handle the golf galleries during the amateur championship at Pebble Beach.

The figures furnish the answer to whether they grow 'em big on the Coast. California has 17 ends on its squad averaging 181.3 pounds, 15 tackles averaging 192.1-4; 17 guards averaging 188.6 and four fullbacks averaging 190.1-2. The average height is around 6 feet for all these candidates.

You can figure the Army's grid-iron drawing power with Cagle this year by the fact that there will be no further public sale of tickets for any of its games away from home, against Harvard, Yale, Illinois, Notre Dame and Stanford.

CANDIDATES NAMED FOR ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Candidates for office in the Athletic Association of Kingston High School were nominated at a meeting of the organization last Wednesday morning. An election, supervised by Raymond H. Woodard, faculty adviser of the A. A., will be held next Monday afternoon.

Those nominated for the several offices are as follows: Gordon Watts, Philip Jones and Leon Clark for president; Virginia Steward, Isabel Brigham and Myra Barth for vice president; Harold Van Deusen and John Burgevin for secretary.

Good Prospects For K. H. S. Eleven

Prospects for a victorious Kingston High School varsity football team brighten every afternoon when the squad of gridiron go through workouts under direction of Warren O. Kias, head coach, at the Athletic Field.

The drills have shown marked progress in bringing out some real football material for this season's DUSO League, which the local school plans to win, although some stiff struggles are looming in their path.

A tentative variety, lined up by Coach Kias, crashed its way through the scrub team Thursday afternoon for a series of 12 touchdowns. It was tough going for the pick of the squad, to batter its way through the hard fighting scrubs, but a spirit of determination spurred the first string men on to their 12 trips across the goal line.

Adept at football strategy as well as having the outstanding factors needed in the scrimmages, the Kingston boys expect to start the season with a win over Spring Valley next Saturday. The game will be played on the gridiron of the locals' opponents.

Although Coach Kias has not named the men to start, it is likely that the following lineup will spike the guns of Kingston High School against Spring Valley:

John Mohr, captain, center.
Sid Balinick, right guard.
Wally Burhans, right tackle.
Bill Fuchsle, right end.
Jerome Dahn, left halfback.
Eddie Minasian, quarterback.
Gordon Watts, fullback.

Tony Leto Beats Southern Champ

Tony Leto of the Eddyville training camp defeated Joe Cook, recognized featherweight champion of Florida, Friday night at Tampa in a 10-round go that was said to be the equal of the thrilling battle in which he trimmed Jose Martinez, Spanish champion, at the Fair Grounds during the summer.

Leto's win climaxed a campaign that brought him against some of the best in the south. Before defeating Joe Cook he took on his brother Johnny at Jacksonville and pummeled him. His performance got him a match with Joe, whom he has added to his list of conquered scorpions. The Eddyville boxer's progress has put him into the limelight of southern pugilistic circles and he is promised some "hot shots" for this winter.

Tony, accompanied by Manuel Quintero and Tommy Jones, expects to come to Kingston in a week or two to rest. The boys like this climate and figure they will be in good shape to do lots of fighting when they depart for the south as soon as the real cold weather sets in.

Another Pan-Am All-Star Game

The Pan-Ams and Kingston All-Stars will go to it Sunday at the Kingston Fair Grounds in the third game of their series, which is now partially enclosed in the bag of the olimen, who contemplate on polishing off their good start with another win.

According to the feeling in the All-Star camp the Pan-Ams will have to play the hardest game of their career to stay with their rivals. Manager McCordie has his men enthused to the boiling point and they will lineup against the olimen with fire in their eyes and harboring a determined spirit.

The Pan-Ams say they will make the All-Stars do a backward march at the Fair Grounds. They are quite sure of a win and will be ready to celebrate a victory Sunday.

Opposing pitchers likely will be Ken Best of the All-Stars and Johnny Celuch of the Pan-Ams.

October 12, Kingston vs. Albany, here.
October 19, Kingston vs. Middletown, here.
October 26, Kingston at Port Jervis.
November 2, Kingston at Peekskill.

Market For Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Sept. 23. (State Department of Agriculture and Markets.)—The peach market closed dull today. Receipts from the western part of the state were moderate. But the demand was rather limited. Wholesale business on Ulster's of farm quality was transacted at $3 to $3.50 per bushel basket, fair to ordinary ranged from $2 to $2.75.

Increased supplies combined with late deliveries resulted in lower prices on Catskill mountain produce. The very best consistencies sold during the early morning hours at $3.75 to $4.25, occasionally $4.50 per crate. At the close, however, $3.50 appeared to be the top. Colorado cauliflower was also weaker and sales were reported from $2.50 to $3.

Fancy big Boston lettuce sold well but inferior received scant attention. Supplies from upstate were more plentiful. Prices of two dozen heads of the best peddled out from $2 to $2.75, while poor sold down to 50 cents.

The movement of fruits and vegetables was rapidly catching up with last year's corresponding record, and reached the high total of 29,614 cars of 25 products during the third week of September.

Sharpest increases over the preceding week were made by potatoes, grapes, apples, onions and fresh prunes. The potato movement alone increased by 2,000 cars.

The season was nearing an end for cantaloupes, watermelons and peaches. Eastern grape shipments were becoming active. Low temperatures did some damage to potatoes in north central states.

The undertone of the market was without decided change on Concord grapes. Trucked-in receipts from the Hudson valley were relatively light. Sales on twelve-quart baskets were consummated at 55 to 60 cents, occasionally higher on small lots of strictly fancy.

Cucumbers and Dills of fancy quality were again scarce and on such the market held firm and entirely in the seller's favor. The top price obtained on upstate cucumbers was $3.50 per bushel basket and on Dills $4.

The bulk of the spinach received from upstate was uniformly poor in quality. Consequently the price obtained in most instances was of loss.

DR. DIEDLING HEADS LEGION STATE PRISON COMMITTEE

Dr. Rudolph F. Diedling, a member of the American Legion, has been appointed chairman of the State Prison Committee of the American Legion to assist J. Bennett, newly elected state commander. Dr. Diedling will have an association with him in the committee some of the most distinguished legions of the state.

The work of the prison committee consists in safeguarding the interests of World War veterans who have committed crime and are incarcerated in state penal institutions. A great many veterans in these institutions have been found also guilty of crime by the local police and committed to have been sentenced to the state prison. Through the Legion, these men have been referred to hospitals for treatment instead of languishing in prison.

Dr. Diedling gave up his work as a member of the New York State Prison Commission of Correction to enter the army during the war. Not only has he an extensive knowledge of the biology and a wide acquaintance among the prison officials of the state, but he is a qualified physician of many years' experience who, together with his demonstrated sympathies for the problems of the incarcerated war veterans, makes him an unusually qualified to fill this important position to which he has been appointed.

Ulster county is raising for itself the confidence of the American Legion of the state. Dr. Diedling's appointment will be hailed with satisfaction and pride by the legions of this city and Ulster county.

MEN'S CLUB ENJOYED TALK BY FIRE CHIEF

After the close of the business meeting Friday evening the members of the Immanuel Men's Club of the Livingston Street Lutheran Church, were entertained with an interesting talk by Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, of the local fire department. Chief Murphy told of the different kinds of apparatus and how they were operated. He also spoke on ways and means of preventing fires and also how to extinguish them. After the talk the committee in charge served refreshments and the evening was thoroughly enjoyed.

How would you tell the exact time at the SOUTH POLE?

WHEN Commander Byrd sailed to the bottom of the world, this was one of his first problems. And because accuracy was essential in scientific observations 60 Hamilton watches went with him. Two Hamiltons flew with him over the North Pole. And for years, two of three hundred of them have timed the crack trains and express mail planes of the nation. The same winning accuracy is yours with any one of our pocket or snap Hamiltons. Come in and look at them. They're priced from $50 to $685. Ask also or write for a copy of the fascinating folder, "With Byrd at the Bottom of the World."

News of the Day In Wall Street

(By The Associated Press.)

New York, Sept. 28.—The money value of contracts let in heavy construction and engineering in the United States in the past week continues substantially higher than for the same time a year ago, engineering-news record reports. The week's total was $108,295,000, compared with $69,741,000 in the corresponding week last year, and $75,972,000 in the preceding week.

Wall Street was informed today that the Bank of England had shipped about $5,000,000 in gold to France, and that an additional shipment has been arranged for Monday.

The net operating income of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad for August amounted to $4,234,405, compared with $4,707,669 in August, 1928.

The Boston and Maine Railroad has ordered 1,000 box cars and 500 hopper cars from the Standard Steel Car Company.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By the Associated Press.)

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—Dr. Henry N. MacCracken, president of Vassar, disagrees with Dr. James Rowland Angell, president of Yale, who has said that Yale students' week-end visits to women's colleges are harmful. President MacCracken suggests that the Yale boys probably stop at roadside stands while motorizing and cram themselves with other things than good wholesome food.

Tuckahoe, N. J.—John Dirocco will be careful of his shooting hereafter. Aiming at a hawk, he saw a figure in the distance wearing a battered hat fall and lie motionless. John fled and hid in a swamp 30 hours. A posse found him. He thought he was being hunted as a killer. It was a scarecrow he shot.

Rochester, N. Y.—W. J. Ewen, Detroit taxi driver, is disillusioned. It looked like velvet when a fare in Detroit ordered him to drive to New York. The fare jumped the cab in Yonkers next to the largest city in the country. Ewen, doubling back home on his 700-mile trip, stopped here to wire for money.

Boston—Professor Hilding N. Carlson of Boston University practices what he preaches. He teaches aerobics.

Swinemuende, Germany—A medical commission is testing various remedies for seasickness on boats in the Baltic Sea. Passengers cooperate by getting sick and trying different treatments.

Madrid—The vacation season is still in full swing. Spain probably holds the world's record for length of such holidays. Four months is not unusual. Anything less than a month is a stigma and a cause for grievance.

Moscow—The government has found a way to make night-loving Russians go to bed. It turns off most of the street lights and doubles

COMPLETION OF ASSESSMENT ROLL.
The Assessment Roll of the city of Kingston for the year 1929, has been finally completed and filed in the office of the City Clerk at the City Hall, in the City of Kingston, N. Y., where the same will remain open to inspection for fifteen days. Dated, Kingston, N. Y., September 17, 1929.

the prices for food and drink after 10 p. m.

Gracia, Poland—The country is having a hard time keeping its precious seacoast, all 84.2 miles of which were awarded by the treaty of Versailles. About half of it is on the Hel Peninsula, a narrow strip of sand ravaged on one side by the Baltic Sea, and on the other by the Bay of Danzig. Stone walls have been erected to hold the shifting sands in place. Guards make daily inspections.

Stockholm—The Vikings ran smelters. The remains of a chieftain's house about 1,700 years old have been uncovered on the island of Gotland. The building was about 185 feet long. Lumps of burned iron were found with knives and arrowheads.

Opening of Hobart College.

The many friends and graduates of Hobart College in Kingston will be interested to learn that Miss Helen Brent, sister of the late Bishop Charles Henry Brent, has accepted a position as house director in one of the women's dormitories. Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y., the oldest American college affiliated with the Episcopal Church, opened its 107th term on September 20 with 328 students. William Smith College has 144. Both enrollments are complete.

PONTIAC BIG SIX at $745

PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

FASTER Today's Pontiac Big Six offers the highest top speed and the fastest acceleration to be found in any low-priced six. Proved by the "fifth wheel"—the most accurate speed measuring device known to automotive engineers.

SMOOTHER Because of the Harmonic Balancer which eliminates torsional crankshaft vibration—full pressure oiling which assures correct engine lubrication at any speed—crankcase ventilation which maintains the
